BANDITS TAKE $59,725

Rob Express Car of Payroll for Marines at Paris Island, S. C., Station

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 30.—An express car on the Charleston and Western Carolina railroad was reported robbed near here early today by bandits who gagged and bound an express messenger and an armed guard and made away with $59,725, constituting the payroll for the marines at the Paris Island, S. C., station.

The money had been expressed under guard from Atlanta and was transferred here to the Charleston and Western Carolina train which left Augusta at 5.15 a. m. When a few miles out of the city in the Savannah river bottom, it is claimed, the holdup men entered the express car, overpowered the messenger and the guard, and threw the safe containing the money out of the door.

The robbery was not discovered until about 30 minutes later after the train had crossed to the South Carolina side of the river. One of the train crew passed through the car and found the expressman and the guard bound and gagged.

DRUGGISTS DISCUSS SALE OF LIQUOR

The alleged strictness of internal revenue regulations governing the sale of alcoholic liquors was the principal subject of discussion at a meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms this morning of the Lowell Druggists association. The discussion followed the presentation by President Fred Jones of the report of the committee that attended a recent meeting of the State Druggists association at which the same subject was considered. Several of the members present told of the difficulties experienced in trying to comply with rules now in force and expressed disapproval of them.

It was decided at the meeting that the places of business of the members shall be closed at 11:30 a. m. Thursday, July 15, to permit the owners and their employees to take part in the annual outing of the druggists at Bass Point. The trip from this city to the seashore is to be made in automobiles. Following dinner at Bass Point, it is expected that there will be a baseball game between nine representing the drug men of Lowell and Haverhill. Later there will be field sports. The local committee in charge of arrangements for the event is made up of John F. Walsh and H. R. Campbell.

Police Chiefs Want to Finger-Print Everybody

News Item—The International police chiefs, in convention at Detroit, solemnly recommended a federal law requiring the registration, by finger-print, of every man, woman and child in the United States.

BY HAL M. COCHRAN
You had better dodge all portions of the well-known poker game, and you'd best cut out the liquor, if you'd save your spotless name; 'Cause the secret sleuths are clever, and they know what they're about; And your finger-prints will queer you.

IF YOU DON'T WATCH OUT!

And for goodness sake be careful. When there comes a rainy day; It is likely you will borrow—An umbrella, we will say; And, of course, you won't return it. No one does—but let us shout: That your finger-prints will queer you.

IF YOU DON'T WATCH OUT!

"Isn't safe, so we are thinkin'. To go steppin' out at night. While the girl may be your sweet-heart, Even so, it isn't right. You may hold her hand, for instance, And she doesn't mind, no doubt; But your finger-prints will queer you."

IF YOU DON'T WATCH OUT!

"Mustn't touch," will be the slogan. And "will worry every one; You will wonder what you've fingered. When your daily work is done. 'Cause they'll have you in their records. And there is no use to point. For your finger-prints will queer you."

SCHOOL BOARD

Accepts Report on Vocational School—Other Business

The school committee voted to accept the report of Henry L. Williams, business agent of the department, relative to additions and repairs to the Vocational school in Broadway and to ask the public property department to act on recommendations in the report, at the regular meeting of the committee last evening.

A list of routine business was also transacted. Major Colby T. Kittredge was appointed instructor of physical training in the Vocational school and instructed to conduct a summer camp for the boys of the high and Vocational schools, if possible. In addition, he will continue his duties as military instructor at the high school. His salary was fixed at $2000, beginning July 1.

The resignations of Miss Ellen McQuade of the high school and Miss A. Gertrude Stiles of the Bartlett school were accepted.

Miss Ella E. Gardner of the Charles street school was retired under the retirement pension rule.

Permission was granted the Lowell Guild to establish two additional baby stations for the summer, in the Greenhage and Elliot schools.

The regular routine election of teachers already employed went through as usual.

John J. Gillett was elected head of the automobile department of the Vocational school, on recommendation of Principal Fisher. Salary, $1000.

Leo A. King, master of the Edison school, having requested that a portable building be placed at that school, the superintendent was instructed to take up the matter with the public property department.

On the nomination of Principal Charles M. Weed, Miss Francis Moriarty was elected a teacher in the Bartlett school, at a salary of $1400. The superintendent recommended the election of the following teachers for the continuation schools:

Academic subjects for boys: Charles D. Foley, James J. Clinton, William J. Reardon.

Instructors in shop work for boys: Charles W. Frost, Raymond W. Slater, William C. Hannafin.

Academic subjects for girls: Anna T. McCarron, Katherine C. O'Neill, Julia M. Driscoll (already teachers in the elementary schools).

Domestic science and household arts for girls: M. Katherine Gallagher, Margaret Harrington, Elizabeth Regan.

The superintendent's recommendations were accepted and the teachers elected, although Chairman Delaney and Mr. Markham were in opposition. Salaries for the women teachers were fixed at $1650 a year and for men teachers at $1500.

Charles J. Rogers and Christine M. Kane were assigned as teachers at the vacation centre in the Greenhage school district.

There was a prolonged discussion relative to the ranking of teachers' examination papers. Chairman Delaney contended that the ranks of all those who take such examinations should be in the possession of the school department. In the past it has been the custom to ask some outside school department to rank the papers and to send the local department names of the highest on the list only. As a result, the young women who take the teachers' examination have no way of learning just what rank they attained. Mr. Markham supported the chairman in his contention, but Messrs. Keyes and Pearson took an opposite view. It was finally voted to direct the superintendent to ask the Worcester school department, which is marking the local papers at the present time, to send the 25 highest numbers, representing young women who took the examination, and to furnish the rest not later than Jan. 1.

BY ROGER W. BABSON.

Old Peter Glenn is still talking about the Klondike.

"Now if I'd packed my kit back in '97 when the boys wanted me to go, I'd have been a millionaire by this time." He's repeated that on the average six times a week for twenty years. He always ends up by allowing that "Every man has one big opportunity, and if he doesn't grab it he's always out of luck."

There's a lot of chaps running around bewailing the fact that they missed their main chance. It seems that fortune knocked once upon a time but they were out. The fact is, they have missed several thousand chances since then by wasting time fussing about something that is dead and gone. There is no corner on opportunity. Our lives are divided up into days so that we have 365 new opportunities every year, with an extra one every four years, just for good measure. One of the most interesting things about living is the fact that every morning is a new beginning, and we can always about face and start all over again. No matter how many mistakes we have made, no matter how many opportunities we have missed.

The man who wrotes that fallacy about "opportunity knocks but once" has cost thousands of men success in life. It is wrong. Opportunity knocks on your door every morning about six o'clock.

SPION KOP'S WIN WAS NO FLUKE

The picture shows Spion Kop being led by his owner, Captain Gilles Loder, just after the horse had won the great racing event in the world, the derby at Epsom Downs.

Spion Kop was considered a rank outsider, the odds being 100 to 6 against him, but Frankie O'Neill, the American jockey, seen astride him, piloted him to victory.

O'Neill has been riding in France for a good many years, being first jockey at a big retailer to W. K. Vandergill's stable at Polesy. He is immensely popular on the Continent, where he is rated one of the finest jockeys in the world.

It is a coincidence that the sire of Spion Kop—Spurmount—was owned by the Loder family, also won the derby—1906—and also was ridden by an American, Danny Maher. In the race of June 3 last Tetratna, the favorite, did not even come within the money.

That Spion Kop's win was no fluke

DISAPPOINTED AT NEW COAL ORDERS FOR N. E.

BOSTON, June 30.—The action of the interstate commerce commission in modifying its priority order in such a way that New England may have its pro rata share of cars available for coal transportation, but cannot claim any extra cars, was deplored yesterday by James J. Storrow, chairing yesterday by James J. Storrow chairing in the extreme.

The chief difficulty in the way of New England's receiving coal lies in the shortage of transportation facilities, according to Mr. Storrow. "We simply ask the interstate commerce commission, which has authority both over transportation facilities and pier capacity," explained the fuel commissioner yesterday, "to exercise this authority and to remedy the existing shortage."

"We are asking only our accustomed and rightful share of both, just as we are asking only our accustomed share of coal. We seek no coal which belongs to any other section of the country; only what rightfully should come to us and which is now being sent abroad."

David A. Ellis, public utilities commissioner, who accompanied Mr. Storrow to Washington recently, was in consultation with him yesterday afternoon at his office, 44 State street. Mr. Ellis said this section objects to being deprived of its fair share of coal for the benefit of mine operators who prefer to make a greater profit by sending it to Europe.

"No less than 400,000 tons of our coal is being ruthlessly sent abroad each month," declared Mr. Ellis, "by men whose attitude is that New England may go hang, for all they care. It is our coal that they are sending away, and our fair and accustomed share and no one else's."

Under the present ruling of the interstate commerce commission Mr. Storrow is wondering how New England is to secure an adequate supply of bituminous coal for the coming winter. The fuel situation here is more serious now, he maintains, than at any previous time.

Only yesterday, Mr. Storrow stated, he learned of a steamer cargo of coal being sold in Boston harbor for $23 a ton. This is the highest price yet heard of. Mr. Storrow pointed out that soft coal formerly sold at the water front for between $4 and $5 a ton, and that during the terrible war winter of 1917-18 it never went higher than $12 or $13.

"The present critical situation," Mr. Storrow explained, "does not necessarily mean that the 'thread-bare patches' will show themselves this month or next, but that they will surely show themselves during the coming winter."

The Boston & Maine railroad, Mr. Storrow explained, has only a 10 days' supply of coal now on hand, but the "one big union idea" are in sea-in winter it should never be without a 90 or 100-day's supply in reserve. In order to be sure of carrying it through the blizzards and trying periods to which all northern railroads are subjected.

"We aren't radicals. We have no connection with the I.W.W. We simply believe that all railroad workers should belong to one union instead of half a dozen brotherhoods. Our plan is to organize the United States and Canada. We have 2,000 members in Chicago right now and we're growing."

Despite a statement by the district chairman that 75 delegates had been seated, detectives who checked up the number of men attending the secret conference asserted that there were not more than 30.

Kelfer said his organization was not related to the Yardmen's association and the United Enginemen, the so-called "outlaw" unions, which were responsible for recent strikes in this country.

REFUSES TO CARRY SOLDIERS IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, June 30.—Newbridge, County Kildare, is the greatest military center serving Curragh, the Ardshot of Ireland. Yesterday for the first time it was sought to dispatch soldiers thence by a train passing from Kilkenny to Dublin. The driver refused to carry them and the soldiers remained on the train, blocking up the line.

Subsequently trains from Athlone and Thurles for Dublin were similarly blocked. The stranded passengers drove to Millarke to catch through trains, not stopping at Newbridge. The soldiers have orders to board any train available, so the situation cannot be relieved by the despatch of trains from Dublin.

The government has had offers of assistance of men from Belfast to operate the trains, but has not accepted them. The situation is declared to be not bad enough as yet to justify the government taking over the trains and entering upon a general conflict.

NAVAL RESERVE FORCE
 Officers and men of the naval reserve force may be recalled to active duty after the first of July, 1920, under the provision of the new naval reserve force law. Neither the officers nor the men will be recalled unless they volunteer for duty, except in cases of emergency. During the coming summer months various cruises are being planned for the benefit of the naval reserve force and when an opportunity arises for any of these cruises notices will be sent out from the office of the commandant of the first naval district. Members of the reserve force who cannot take long cruises will have the chance to join some battleship, cruiser or other vessel of the Atlantic fleet for a period designated by themselves of two weeks or more.

CANNED SPEECHES BY REPUBLICAN NOMINEES

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Declaring the nation "requires no council of foreign powers to point the way to American duty," Senator Harding, republican nominee for president, in his first campaign speech yesterday urged the preservation of Americanism as the first and highest endeavor of all citizens of the republic.

The candidate's first utterance of the campaign was heard by no audience yesterday, being made for a phonographic record to be released on the Fourth of July and to be used throughout the campaign. A copy of the senator's address was made public at his office and with it a speech made last week by Gov. Coolidge of Massachusetts, the party's vice presidential nominee for a similar purpose.

Senator Harding chose "Americanism" as his subject, while Gov. Coolidge spoke on "Law and Order." America, Mr. Harding said, does not mean to hold aloof, chooses no isolation and shuns no dog, but, he continued, "we arrogate to ourselves the keeping of the American continent and every concept of our moral obligation." The presidential candidate added that "it is very practical to make sure our own house is in perfect order before we attempt the miracle of old world stabilization."

In urging maintenance of law and order, Gov. Coolidge defined the need of America as "a broader, firmer, deeper faith in the people, a faith that men desire to do right, that the government is founded upon a righteousness which will endure."

Americanism Began in 1787

"The first flaming torch of Americanism," said Senator Harding in part, "was lighted in framing the federal constitution in 1787. There was no thought of nationality in the revolution for American independence. The colonists were resisting a wrong, and freedom was their goal. Once it was achieved, nationality was the only agency suited to its preservation."

"Americanism really began when robed in nationality. America headed the forward procession of civil, human and religious liberty, which ultimately will effect the liberation of all mankind."

"Let us hesitate before we surrender the nationality which is the very soul of highest Americanism. This republicanism began in 1787."

MISS E. E. CURTIS SOLVES THE DRINK PROBLEM FOR THE HOME

Tells How To Make a Half Gallon of Delicious
Orangeade at Home for Twenty-Five Cents

It remained for a woman to solve the drink problem for the home—she is Miss E. E. Curtis of Melrose, Mass. Here's how she has enabled every family to enjoy delicious orangeade, at a cost of only twenty-five cents for a half gallon.

Miss Curtis has concentrated the flavor of oranges in a paste form which is put up in a can—a teaspoonful of this paste will make a glass of orangeade, or the contents will make half a gallon. Just add to water and drink. No boiling, no cooking.

It's fine for picnics, parties, and great to have in the house all the time for yourself and company.

Orangeade is good for the kiddies—let them have all they want. You're missing a treat that can't be beat if you don't get Miss Curtis' Orangeade Paste—so do it now.

For sale by any good grocer. If your grocer is sold out send twenty-five cents in stamps and receive enough to make half a gallon. Address Miss Emma E. Curtis, Melrose, Mass.—Adv.

American Defeats Japanese Star

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 30.—William T. Tilden of Philadelphia today won the final match in the British singles championship tournament by defeating Zeno Shimizu, the Japanese star. Tilden will meet Gerald L. Patterson of Australia in the challenge for the title.

Three Women Prisoners Break Jail

AKRON, O., June 30.—Three women prisoners sawed their way to freedom at the county jail early today. They occupied a cell over the jail office. After sawing the bars they dropped to the ground directly in front of the office window.

Mexico Releases American Aviator

MEXICO CITY, June 30.—General Calles, the war minister, last night ordered the release of Lieutenant Stanley M. Ames, the American aviator who was forced to make a landing in Mexico, 357 miles south of the border, on Sunday last while lost in a rain storm.

He has never failed humanly nor endangered civilization.

"We have been tardy sometimes, like when we were proclaiming democracy and neutrality, while we ignored our national rights, but the ultimate and helpful part we played in the great war will be the pride of America so long as the world recites the story."

"We do not mean to hold aloof, we choose no isolation, we shun no duty. I like to rejoice in an American conscience, and in a big conception of our obligations to liberty, justice and civilization. Aye, and more. I like to think of Columbia's helping hand to new republics which are seeking the blessings portrayed in our example. But I have a confidence in our America that requires no council of foreign powers to point the way of American duty. We wish to counsel, co-operate and contribute, but we arrogate to ourselves the keeping of the American continent and every concept of our moral obligation."

Senator Harding and Gov. Coolidge will meet here today for the first time since they were nominated at Chicago as the party standard bearers.

Chairman Hays of the republican national committee also will participate in the conferences, which will start with Gov. Coolidge as the guest of Mr. Harding at breakfast. Mr. Coolidge was scheduled to arrive in Washington late last night.

In addition to going over a lot of correspondence that accumulated during his week-end trip to New Jersey, Senator Harding held conferences with Ogden Reed, editor of the New York Tribune; Stanley H. Howe of New York, director of the national budget committee and secretary of the Young Men's Republican club of New York, and W. C. Howe of New York, representing an organization composed of publishers of financial periodicals.

Gov. Coolidge's Address

"The first duty of a government is to be true to itself," said Gov. Coolidge in part. "This does not mean perfection in part. It means a plan to strive for perfection. It means loyalty to ideals. The ideals of America were set out in the Declaration of Independence and the Declaration of the Constitution. They did not represent perfection attained but perfection planned. The fundamental principle was freedom. The fathers knew this was not yet apprehended. They formed a government first in the faith that it was ever to press forward to this high mark."

"Men show by what they worship, what they are. It is no accident that

NEW LAW FOR AUTOISTS NOW IN EFFECT

"Wait for the car on your right when crossing an intersection of streets" is the gist of the new law for autoists which went into effect yesterday. This law was passed at the last session of the legislature and is aimed to prevent the street-crossing accidents. All drivers need to do on approaching an intersecting road on their right hand is to remember that cars coming out of that road have the right of way.

Under the law there is a great deal left to the judgment of the driver. He is supposed to know whether he has time to proceed before one coming down the right hand street arrives at the corner. If he sees he has he may go across ahead of the other driver. This rule applies only on roads where there are no traffic officers. Of course where there are traffic officers the autoists need only follow his directions.

The new rule also forbids parking cars within 50 feet of a firehouse.

WOMAN KILLED AT CROSSING IDENTIFIED

NORTH ADAMS, June 30.—The woman killed here yesterday afternoon at the grade crossing accident in which Frank E. Huxley of Jamaica Plain also met instant death, was today positively identified as Josephine R. Burke, 22 years old of 21 Green street, Jamaica Plain, the daughter of an undertaker. It was at first supposed that the dead woman was Mrs. Huxley. Miss Burke was a neighbor of the Huxleys and was on her way back to Boston after going over the Mohawk trail.

The Closing-Out Sale which is being conducted by the Empire Clothing Co., of 250 Central street, next door to the Owl Theatre, is attracting great crowds to its store.

The entire stock of men's, women's and children's clothing is being cleared preparatory to their vacating the property next week. Everything is being sold at practically what it will bring—suits, coats, dresses, capes for women, outfits for children and suits and overcoats for men and boys. In addition to large stocks of new summer merchandise, the company is disposing of great quantities of winter suits and overcoats for men and women at sacrifice prices.

When the clothing company vacates the property it will be turned over to the Wamsit Garage, and it will be converted into sales and display rooms for the Franklin and Studebaker cars, the latter concern having purchased the lease of the Empire Clothing Co. which runs to 1926.

U. S. Forces Restore Order

Following Bandit Raids at Port Au Prince

KINGSTON, Jamaica, June 29.—Bandits have raided Port-au-Prince, the Haytian capital, according to passengers arriving here this afternoon from that city. Several buildings were set on fire by the attacking party, but United States marines restored order after killing the leaders of the raid.

It is reported that a secret effort to overthrow the president of the Haytian republic is being declared from abroad.

Admits Firing Boston Hotels

city of the room occupied by Hobbs. Aside from the alarm caused to guests, and the damage to property, the succession of fires coming night after night, had aroused great anxiety amongst hotel managers, and greater precaution has been taken to guard against a visit from the incendiary.

The first of the fires started at the Adams house, the Boston home of Gov. Coolidge, on June 24. The day after it was the Hotel Hollis and on June 26, the Hotel Brewster, which was fired. The damage in each case was small.

On Monday, however, the American house was the scene of a fire which caused $10,000 loss and endangered many persons.

Yesterday the Hotel Essex was selected by the firebug for a visit, but the flames were extinguished with minor loss.

Hobbs, who had registered under an assumed name, was arrested at the Essex because of peculiar actions. He wore a cap purchased near the American house on Monday and officials connected this fact with the finding of a straw hat on the floor of the hotel.

His handwriting was found on the registers of three of the hotels. He explained his use of false names by the statement that he was a deserter from the Battleship North Dakota. He maintained at first that he knew nothing of the fires, but this morning he told the officials he was the incendiary.

He is said to have declared he did not know why he had started the fires, but acted during spells when he "heard wheels going around in his head."

Hotel employees identified him as a man seen in the vicinity of several of the places fired.

Hobbs, the police said, admitted specifically setting the last four of the fires, but said he could not remember having set that at the Adams House. He was charged, however, with setting all five.

The police of New York were notified of the arrest with a view to investigate the possibility that Hobbs was responsible for small similar series of fires in hotels there recently.

EPWORTH LEAGUE ANNUAL BANQUET

At the annual banquet of the Epworth league last evening in Centralville M. E. church, Rev. W. W. Van Kirk of Needham Heights spoke of "Youth," saying that the country today needed the courage and vision of youth, but not the vision of youth which is nothing but an empty dream, accomplishing nothing. Rev. Reginald Nichols, a student of ministry at Ohio Wesleyan Institute, also spoke. The large attendance was exceedingly gratifying to those in charge.

In electing the officers for the coming year the following were appointed: Miss Joseph P. Garmag, president; Miss Grace Cluer, secretary; Gaylord Hiser, treasurer; Mrs. Dena Colburn, first vice president; Miss Mildred Smith, second vice president; Miss Blanche Whitman, third vice president; Mrs. Karl R. Meister, fourth vice president.

The entertainment was provided by Miss Helen Drew, Miss Elizabeth Makeever of Marion, Ohio, and Miss Nichols of Everett. Mrs. Dena Colburn, Miss Ruth Hartwell and the pastor had general charge. The supper was provided by the Ladies' Aid society under the direction of Mrs. A. E. Gregory, assisted by Mrs. Luella Wotton, Miss Mary Peab, Mrs. Dean Colburn, Mrs. Minnie Fox, Mrs. Laura Tilton, Mrs. Daisy Stevens, Mrs. Grace Hise, Mrs. Hattie Whitlier and Mrs. Andrew E. Swapp.

ANTI-BOLSHEVİK FORCES ADVANCE

SEBASTOPOL, June 29.—The troops of Gen. Wrangel, commander of anti-Bolshevik forces in the Crimea, are reported to be advancing against slight opposition. Bogdan, on the northern shore of the Sea of Azov, was captured by his forces on June 25.

TOWED INTO PORT

BOSTON, June 30.—The Metropolitan steamer Calvin Austin, making an overnight run with passengers and freight from New York for Boston, lost a propeller blade at the entrance to the Cape Cod canal this morning and was delayed in arriving at this port as a result. The steamer Delaware, a freighter in the New York-Boston service took her in tow.

FELL FROM BICYCLE

While on his way home to dinner on his bicycle this noon, Charles Cleary of 1023 Central street fell from his machine at the corner of Hutchinson and Shaw streets and received a fracture of the left leg as well as injuries to his left arm. The ambulance removed him to the Lowell Corporation hospital.

LULL IN RECRUITING ACTIVITIES HERE

Because the main navy recruiting office in Boston is being moved from its old station to new quarters in 66 Hanover street, the local recruiting office will not be allowed to send any navy recruits to Boston until Friday morning. Enlistments at the Boston station, through which the Lowell men have to go, were suspended today at noon until noon Friday. Any applicants who are signed up at the local station on Thursday will receive subsistence for the day and be sent to Boston on the first train Friday morning.

During the summer months when the Saturday afternoon closing hours are in effect no men will be sent to Boston on Saturday unless they can arrive at headquarters in time to be fully enlisted by noon.

Because of the suspension of enlistments, Chief Crepeau expects to have six or eight men ready for Boston on Friday morning.

CAVALRY BAPTIST CHURCH

All the various organizations of the Cavalry Baptist church and school are very busy planning for the lawn party which is to take place tomorrow evening on the Flint estate in the rear of the church. The plans are fully developed for an unusually interesting event, and it will be more of a neighborhood entertainment than a strictly church affair, with everybody invited. The project was inaugurated by the women's society of the church. Mrs. Asa Reed Dills, president, Mrs. Charles E. Thurston, secretary, form the committee on arrangements.

CAVALRY RECRUIT

Sergt. A. C. McLeod of the army recruiting station, forwarded George White of 46 Campaw street, Lowell, to Fort Brown, Brownsville, Texas, yesterday afternoon, as a recruit for the 4th Cavalry. Any other young men desiring to join White in Texas should make application as soon as possible at the army station because the vacancies for that section are being filled rapidly.

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor
SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.
Member of the Associated Press

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published herein.

The pyromaniac, who is trying to burn up Boston's hotels in the night time, is about the most dangerous criminal that Massachusetts has harbored in a long time.

"Says democrats deserve to win," states a headline. Whoever made the statement said what is true. Moreover, they're going to.

It makes some of our complaints about the high cost of food seem rather trivial to read of food riots in Hamburg in which two people were killed and over 50 wounded.

Poor old Jimmie, after drawing the police carry-up wagon for more than 20 years, if he could have spoken, could have told a more interesting tale than even a veteran police reporter.

Since Mr. McAdoo cleaned up one freight jam that afflicted the country in a comparatively short time, The Sun suggests that it might not be a bad idea to attempt to draft him to help solve the present menacing transportation problem.

Those people, some of whom are supposed to know what they are talking about, who arise every few days to inform the public that there is soon to be plenty of sugar, might well remember that "hope deferred maketh the heart sick."

It is to be hoped that the spirit of "pass the buck"—put them on any other street than mine—will not be permitted to prevent the carrying out of the "Lowell plan" for closing a few thoroughfares for use as children's playgrounds for a short time each evening.

It wouldn't have seemed possible not so very long ago that anybody could possibly welcome quarters in the Lowell jail, but, if the house shortage grows much more acute, a chance to occupy some of the cells in the former abode of lawbreakers may offer attractions.

New Hampshire seems to have got ahead of Massachusetts in enacting a law providing that no motor vehicle shall be operated at a speed of more than ten miles an hour within 100 feet of a railroad crossing. If such a law had been in force here, at least one bad accident in the vicinity of Lowell, in which two lives were lost, would probably not have happened.

Governor Coolidge seems to have fallen into a very common error, in his address at Vermont University, in looking upon our war loans as debts alone and not also as assets. We must raise the money to pay the principal and interest on the debts, but the money will come from our own people and, to the last penny be paid back to them. This is very different from the conditions in some of the countries of Europe.

Senator Walsh at San Francisco is evidently determined to put up a vigorous battle against any dictation from President Wilson on the League of Nations issue. The senator would favor the league covenant with the reservations adopted by the senate; but not otherwise. He has declared that he would favor a platform plank relative to the league, same as that adopted by the republican party and thus eliminate that issue from the campaign. Senator Walsh feels that the democratic party should devote its attention mainly to its domestic affairs rather than expend its energies on matters of interest mainly of foreign nations, but he will not be able to put his views in the platform.

HUMAN SIDE OF PLANTS

No one can thoroughly enjoy plants until he or she knows them intimately. Then it is that wonderful discoveries are made. For instance, Royal Dixon points out in his book, "The Human Side of Plants," there are plants that walk, eat insects, that fish, that mimic, defend themselves, keep a landing army, employ an aerial squadron, keep servants and live-stock, rob and plunder and murder, that are athletes, that ride on animals, that predict the weather, tell the time of day, keep a diary, build airships, build islands, produce light, that see, that carry life insurance, that sleep, that hide their blossoms and fruit, and finally, that carry on courtships and actually marry. In other words, plants are like human beings. They live. They obey the laws of nature just as men and women and children do. They are a part of life.

Among other plants that walk are the currant bush, white clover, sweet potato and Wandering Jew.

Venus' Fly, which flourishes in North Carolina, is noted for its ability to devour insects.

The bladderwort, or Utricularia, lives largely on sea food, tiny minnows and other water life.

Many plants send their seed-children out into the world by means of a delicately molded airship. Among these are the dandelion, milkweed, daisy and others. The airships are marvelous works of creation.

Plants are truly wonderful things. Study them.—N. E. A.

THE NEW AUTO LAW

It will require a considerable time for all drivers of automobiles to become conversant with the new law which gives one driver the right of way over another coming to a point at intersecting streets. If any driver on approaching an intersecting street finds another auto crossing in front of him from the right, the law provides that such auto has the right of way. Of course the law assumes that both come up to the point of intersection at the same time. Without such a law each might feel that he had the right to pass ahead of the other and thus a collision might occur.

If this new law is followed it will probably prevent many accidents. It is still necessary, however, that the other law which requires automobiles to slow down to a speed of eight miles an hour at intersecting streets, should be scrupulously observed. A machine exceeding this speed cannot stop in time to avert an accident when another vehicle appears to cross its path.

There is still another frequent cause of accidents among auto drivers due generally to speed madness. It is that of trying to pass another machine on a curve. In most cases the roads are not wide enough to allow three machines to run abreast and when one tries to pass another on a curve and meets a third in front, a collision is inevitable. Many accidents on the Lawrence road were due to this cause. So dangerous is the attempt of one auto to pass another on a curve that a law imposing a penalty for such an offense would have a salutary effect.

SUNDAY DROWNINGS

The fact that on Sunday there were eight drownings in New England shows that many people are as reckless in bathing and boating as in driving automobiles. Too many who are not expert swimmers take dangerous chances; and the same may be said of those who go out in canoes. The man who cannot swim and who is not accustomed to paddling a canoe, takes a big chance of losing his life when he goes out in this dangerous craft. Yet it is just such a canoeist who will want to change seats with somebody else. It was in this way that a canoe was upset at Canobie lake Sunday when one of the occupants was drowned.

Several others had a narrow escape from drowning, having been rescued just in time to save their lives. It is unfortunate that so many people are either very poor swimmers or can swim none at all.

It should be regarded as the duty of every man and woman to learn to swim. If a person who falls into deep water will only strike out with their limbs and arms, they can remain at the surface long enough to give their nearby friends a chance to rescue them. Persons who cannot swim, however, usually go to the bottom without making any motion that would bring them to the surface.

With a public bath house up the river and men ready to teach the bathers to swim, it is to be hoped that a large proportion of those who cannot swim will go there to learn. The ability to swim is the best protection against drowning accidents.

USING SCHOOL BUILDINGS

The Lowell Chamber of Commerce has tentative plans under consideration for opening the school houses of the city, during hours when they are not otherwise in use, for concerts, entertainments and social gatherings of the people. This is part of the chamber's plan for carrying on its work of Americanization.

It has long been recognized by thoughtful people that it was a misfortune that the tremendous investment represented in our school buildings could not be made to yield larger returns to the community. Under present conditions the schools are utilized for only a few hours each day during five days in the week for about nine months of the year. Overhead charges for maintenance and care go on practically all the time.

One of the most promising ways in which loyal Americans can be made out of foreign-born residents is by bringing them into contact with the other elements in the communities in which they live. None of us can have much sympathy or real feeling of any kind for a person that we do not know. The foreigners view the native-born Americans from afar off as a rule, and it is not strange that they have many erroneous ideas relative to our aims and our institutions.

It is an absurd idea that the city should confine its educational activities almost wholly to youth. There is fully as much need that the people who have come to us from Greece, Poland, Russia and other countries, wherein democracy and free institutions, as we know them, are unknown, should be educated in our ideals of Americanism.

Getting the foreign-born out of the colonies, away from their national clubs and organizations, and into contact and intercourse with American citizens will go a long way toward breaking down the barriers of race and nationality that now exist and will be a long step toward the settlement of a problem which as a people we are just beginning to realize as serious.

THE LONDONDERY RIOTS

Editor Sun.—I think your editorial on the Londonderry riots was not entirely fair to the unionists as you blamed them for causing the trouble and for shooting down Sinn Feiners without cause. As I understand it, the Sinn Fein element started the trouble and the unionists were obliged to act in self-defense so long as the government troops were unable to defend them. Yours truly, C. T. B.

It is probable that the writer of the above has depended upon the press despatches relative to occurrences in Londonderry during the trouble. It appears that very little news of the situation was given out except what was authorized by Lord Beaverbrook through his London office. News from that source indicated that the conflict was one between Protestants and Catholics. Such a report wholly misrepresented the facts. It was not a religious fight, but one resulting from the refusal of unionist office holders to vacate their places for the Sinn Fein officials who were elected on June 15.

For more than a century, Londonderry had been represented in parliament by a Tory or unionist who was opposed to Irish liberty in any form. In the general election of 1918, however, for the first time a real Irish nationalist, Arthur Griffith, now vice president of the Irish republic, was elected as a Sinn Feiner for Londonderry by a decided majority. In the December elections a mayor was elected by the Sinn Fein or nationalist citizens. That was a severe blow to the Tories whose party cry for years has been "No surrender." On June 15 last, the Sinn Feiners or republicans won another victory in the elections to the county and municipal councils, electing their candidates by a big majority. These victories gave them control of the body that has charge of city and county taxation. This was the bitterest pill of all for the unionists. The incumbents of the tax office refused to retire to make way for their legally elected successors. This precipitated the trouble that resulted in a riot. As soon as the conflict assumed a serious aspect, government troops were poured into the city to protect the Tory officials who tried to hold their offices in violation of the law.

Thus it was the Irish republic on one side and the Tories of Londonderry, backed by British troops, on the other, that were engaged in the riots. Of course only one outcome could be expected. About a score of Sinn Feiners were killed and a great many wounded while only two or three of the other side were killed. The republicans, almost unarmed, were exposed to the volleys of the well armed Tories, backed by the government troops, who were there to defend the rebellious minority rather than to enforce the law.

SEEN AND HEARD

The knocker and his welcome are soon parted.

"The fool who says till he is sick must fast till he is well."

At this season weeds are given mandatory control of the average garden.

It is hardly reasonable to call them pleasure cars when the mortgage on the house falls due.

One man makes a position or an office famous, and after that the office makes his successors famous.

Now, when a candidate says he is liberal, one can't tell whether he is referring to his views or his purse.

When a man says he is burning with a desire to have the country, he means that he is tired of working for a living.

There is still a lot of room for improvement in a world where people will trade Liberty bonds for oil well stock.

Where in the world do the manufacturers and all these perfect women they show in the corset advertisements?

Hard to Remember

"Rather absent-minded, isn't he?" "Extremely so! Why, the other night when he got home he knew there was something he wanted to do, but he couldn't remember what it was until he had sat up over an hour trying to think."

"And did he finally remember it?" "Yes—he discovered that he wanted to go to bed early."

Justified Barbecue

At 2 o'clock, when the midday rush was over, a customer entered a restaurant and ordered some lunch. Half an hour passed and still he sat here, unfed and miserable. Then as the hands of the clock indicated 2.45, his face grew grim and desperate.

"Waiter," he called out, "what time do you close?" "Six-thirty, sir," replied the astonished server.

With a note of deep concern in his voice the customer asked: "You'll be careful not to lock me in, won't you?"

Domestic Hostilities

Only two months ago they had been married. Then everything had seemed so bright and fair. But marriage had removed the gilt from the gingerbread and Donald and his wife realized that they were mismatched. Each had very decided opinions and tried to enforce them on the other. In other words, they quarreled all the time. At last Donald felt he could stand it no longer. So he went to the minister who had performed the marriage ceremony and demanded that he reverse the process and separate them forthwith.

"I am sorry to hear this account of your wife," said the minister sadly, "but I can't separate you, you know, Donald. You two are now one."

"One is it?" replied Donald scornfully. "Dad, sir, if ye wis tae pass oor hoose about 9 o'clock in the evening ye'd shairly think there wis mair like a dozen o' us!"

Suck in Life

New York's East Side is speaking: "There ain't no use talkin'. Jes' because we ain't as nice an' polished an' refined as them society people who come down here to look at us an' pity us, like we were animals in a zoo, they think we're tough an' bad an' ought to be reformed."

"They got another think comin'. They see the kids down here playin' in the gutters, barefoot an' dirty an' happy—tho' them society folks don't know it—an' mothers sittin' on the house steps cursin' their babies, Jes' like nature wants mothers to care for their children. An' they think it's hell an' call a part of me 'Hell's Kitchen.'"

"Tough! Well, we might look tough to the dear little coddled West Side. But we're jes' as human as they are, if not more so."

"Bad! Well, whatever bad there's in us we don't hide behind a veil of hypocrisy an' affectedness an'—yes, an' so-called charity!"

"Poor! In money, yes, an' in the show an' flashness an' paint an' powder of the West Side. But let us play barefoot in the mud of the gutters an' mind our children as nature wants us to, an' we're richer than the West Side—in happiness. Which is all we want out of life."

Lullaby

The mother bird sits in her nest and sings, Under the twilight sky; And her babies cuddle under her wings.

As the night-time breeze creeps by— But I hold you close in my arms, dear heart.

And I sing you a little tune; And I kiss your cheek, that is like a part.

Of the pinkest rose of June, The mother bird sits in her swaying nest.

In the top of a tall old tree; And her babies cuddle close to her breast.

But, oh, little heart of me, I hold you tight till your eyelids fall, And I rock you in a comfy chair— And, dear, as the evening shadows fall,

I whisper a little prayer, —Margaret E. Sangster, in Christian Herald.

WAGE INCREASES

Chicago Police and Firemen to Get $2100 a Year

CHICAGO, June 30.—The city council began consideration of pay increases to city employees totalling more than $1,500,000 yesterday by granting a maximum yearly wage of $2100 to firemen and policemen.

ORDAINED TO FRIENDHOOD

Rev. Edward Swift of this city was ordained to the priesthood in the order of the Society of Jesus in the Dahlgren chapel of Georgetown university yesterday by Cardinal Gibbons, who was assisted by Rev. William Clark, rector and official master of ceremonies at Woodstock college, and Dr. Hector Dapl, professor of rites and canon law at the Jesuit novitiate.

New York state forbids use of the U. S. flag for advertising purposes.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The Greeks of Lowell seem to have put one over on the rest of the community in establishing and maintaining by their patronage their coffee houses or smoking rooms. For the Greeks these take the place once filled for a considerable number of other people by the vanished saloon with the perilous features of the saloon left out. They furnish a comfortable and inviting place for neighborhood gatherings, where men can relax, get in touch with their fellows and enjoy the pleasures of good fellowship. The doors seem to be always wide open for the welcome of anyone who cares to enter. Just now one of the principal subjects of conversation around the coffee houses is the attack that it is expected that Greece will soon launch against Turkey. It is the dream of every Greek patriot that sooner or later the whole of what might be called the Grecian peninsula will come under the control of a central government located at Athens, and that once more the cross of Christianity will loom in place of the crescent above ancient St. Sophia's. An interesting feature of the local coffee houses is a dance that someone seems to start almost every evening. Usually half a dozen men participate, and it appears to be sort of a combination of the sword dance, Highland fling, sailors' hornpipe and tarantelle. For hours the men circle round and round, holding onto handkerchiefs in each others hands, pausing only occasionally for a sip of cooling liquid.

What would happen to Lowell if all her night workers should suddenly take it into their heads to quit their jobs and leave the community at the mercy of the goddess of circumstance during the mysterious hours that nightly clothe the city in darkness? The question was suggested to me by an item in one of the magazines recently and never before did I realize just how great a part the night workers of the city's population play in its maintenance, progress and growth. There must always be some who will have to give up the enjoyment, peace and rest that night brings in order that others may play or sleep in comfort and safety. The policeman, fireman, mail collector, mail clerk, janitor, engineer, newspaper worker, milkman and chauffeur are all called upon to play their trades while the rest of the community sleeps in peace. And they are but a few of the great army of workers who toll in the night that the community may continue in its path of peace and progress.

SHRINKAGE IN LOWELL'S SINKING FUNDS

Two plans to relieve the situation caused by a shrinkage in the value of securities held by the city of Lowell as sinking funds were suggested by Theodore N. Wadell, state director of accounts, at a conference with Mayor Thompson and other city officials in Boston yesterday. The first was to have the city take advantage of a recent piece of legislation which allows a city in case of emergency to borrow money for one year to make up natural deficits. However, the attorney general, state treasurer and director of accounts must approve the loan.

If this permission were gained and the city took advantage of the law, it would be tied over until the next session of the legislature when it might be possible to gain an extension of time.

The second plan proposed by Mr. Wadell was to use about $150,000 of perpetual care funds of the cemetery commissioners inasmuch as the commissioners are allowed to use only the income from these funds. The principal would simply be transferred temporarily to the sinking fund and the income still paid to the cemetery commissioners.

It has not been definitely decided which course of action the city will follow but the first plan is being given serious consideration. It is feared that a shrinkage of nearly $100,000 in sinking fund securities has come about as a result of the downward trend of the money market in the past year or so.

BATTERY B RANKS ARE FILLED TO LIMIT

The ranks of Battery B 102nd Field Artillery were filled to the limits of 10 per cent. over peace time strength at the armory last night when 13 new men were examined and mustered into the service. The examinations were made by Major Hodskins of the state surgeon general's department, and the mustering in was done by Captain W. C. MacBrayne.

A short drill followed the muster and there was an address on artillery warfare by Lieutenant Gustafson. The battery is planning for several social events in which the public will be invited to participate and from which it is hoped funds may be raised to defray the expenses of the battery on a trip to Washington on March 4. One of the projects under consideration involves a free trip to Washington for someone. It is hoped to have Sousa's band give two concerts in Lowell August 12.

There will be no salute fired on the morning of the Fourth by the battery. It had been partly arranged to secure the use of a 75-mm gun from Harvard university, but it was discovered that it would not be possible to obtain ammunition for use with it.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS by Olive Roberts Barton. RUSTLE RED SQUIRREL. Oscar Owl kept on scolding about having to pay all the rent for his apartment in Maple Tree flat, when Rustle Red Squirrel lived in it at night. Rustle Red Squirrel lived in it at night. Knows-Where, and I live—why, dear me, where do I live? I completely forgot. I'm so busy attending to other people's houses, that I never have time to think about my own. But my wife will remember. She always remembers everything for me—when to take my medicine, and when to change my socks, and when to put in the window screens, and when to—

But Mr. Owl interrupted him. "Hopping toads!" he exclaimed, "what's all this chatter of socks and medicine and window screens? I'm standing here shivering in my night clothes while you people act as though you were at a sewing society meeting or a strawberry ice cream festival. Now's your chance, Mr. Landlord Tingaling, to ask Rustle Red Squirrel for his share of my rent."

THERE SAT RUSTLE RED SQUIRREL ON A LIMB, SMILING IN THE MOST FRIENDLY FASHION

While he was out, and yet never offered to pay a cent. Tingaling, the fairy landlord, and Nancy and Nick stood and listened because there wasn't anything else they could do. Tingaling leaned on one foot, then on the other, and tapped his big sharp lead pencil on his book, hoping Oscar would get through scolding, when suddenly a happy little voice just outside the door began to sing: "Chickaree riddle, oh chickaree riddle, Coon in the brambles can't see me, I live in a very fine Maple Tree flat. Now, please tell me, sirs, where do you live at?" Everybody turned and there sat Rustle Red Squirrel himself on a limb, smiling in the most friendly fashion. Nancy answered his question first. "We are Nancy and Nick, the twins."

To Recognize Albanian Independence

ROME, June 29.—Premier Gioiotti, speaking in the chamber of deputies, this afternoon, reiterated his determination to recognize the independence of Albania. The message demanding the withdrawal of Italian troops from Albanian territory was rejected.

BIG SHORTAGE OF NURSES ANNOUNCED

BUFFALO, June 30.—Unless some remedy is found for the acute shortage of nurses, many hospitals of the country will be compelled to curtail their operations, asserts Mrs. Annie L. Hansen, superintendent of the Buffalo District Nursing association, in her annual report. A recent campaign to induce more young women to take up the profession of nursing was a failure, Mrs. Hansen said, and as a result, one Buffalo institution was compelled to close one of its departments. "Hospital training schools of the United States have reached a high state of efficiency and new hospitals and new systems for nursing the sick in their homes are arising everywhere," Mrs. Hansen said, "but the necessary pupils fail to appear. The country needs another Florence Nightingale."

More than 500,000 Japanese, mostly laborers, are residents in other countries.

"SEX" PICTURE MAKES DOUBTFUL APPEAL

The photo play "Sex," with Louise Glaum as Adrienne Renault, premier danseuse, home-breaker, heart-breaker and light of love—later somewhat chastened and repentant—has attracted large audiences to the Owl theatre Monday and yesterday. It was the opinion of experienced theatre-goers at the close of the performances, that if any considerable number of the people present had been drawn to the playhouse by the expectation of witnessing scenes that were salacious, suggestive and even malodorous, they saw enough to satisfy even a voracious appetite for such things.

The play for the most part was received in stony silence, although during one of the scenes picturing a wild orgy of drunkenness in which men and women participated in the apartments of Miss Renault, there were audible expressions of what seemed to be disgust from some of those present and one or two incoherent hisses were started by women in the audience.

The play as a whole can probably be best characterized by saying that if the same scenes shown on the screen had been put upon the stage by a company of living actors and actresses, the theatre would have been deserted by a considerable part of the audience as a protest against the appeal to prurient tastes.

The play differs from other screen productions in which the sex motive has been prominently featured in that apparently no pretense is made that it has a mission to reform or uplift. No attempt seems to have been made to camouflage the viciousness and the "naughtiness." Vice, as it is supposed to exist in what may be called the upper levels of New York's underworld is pictured in a way that gratifies prurient curiosity—to attract patronage by catering to a morbid and unhealthy interest in vicious things that are commonly kept hidden from the public eye.

If it should be pleaded in behalf of "Sex" that it has a purpose to make vice repulsive and to show the reward that is supposed to be the final lot of virtue, it can scarcely be said that, as the scenes unfold, they seem calculated to bring about this end.

The construction of the play is too crude, the incidents introduced are too commonplace and unrelieved from sordid, unimaginative immorality, to point any moral. At the end a faithless husband is rewarded to a faithful wife, and the adventures is left upon the deck of an ocean steamer, whether destined for a suicide's grave in the sea or to sail on to new scenes of vicious living is uncertain.

The Plot

The plot of the play—if it can be said to have one—is as old as man. It deals with the fortunes of a virtuous wife and a rake of a husband. The husband has his liaison with the ballet dancer, who finally casts him off, after his wife has secured a divorce to take up with a newer and richer lover. She becomes the wife of the lover, and is supposed to develop a deep affection for him. She is turned is robbed of her husband by a young woman whom she has helped to initiate into the ways of the underworld and to whom she has early given the advice regarding her relations with married men, "never mind to long as they are not married to you." As a rule of conduct she has advised the young neophyte that "women are forever fighting over men, grab all you can and keep it."

The play opens with a pretty allegorical picture, that is one the screen for a minute or two, in which a newly-wedded couple are shown inside of a wedding ring. Figures representing the pleasures and follies of life appear and dance upon the edge and the ring is broken.

The opening scene shows the interior of the Frivoli cabaret in New York, with a crowd of the gayest of gay mid-night revelers in attendance. There is some romping about by the ponies of the chorus, and one or two wrangles and high kicks on the stage, but the figures are presented on too small a scale to attract much attention.

The "Stalkish" Husband

Philip Overman, the rakish husband, appears on the scene. He pursues the wily Adrienne on the stage and ultimately captures her. They disappear in a cloud of steam—that may be intended to represent sulphur, smoke from the pit of the nether world—for the scene is an imitation of hell with the traps as waiters—and they slowly appear again through the centre of the stage with the ballet leader borne on the shoulders, or on the back of her companion. At least that is the impression that the pictures give, for the figures are quite small.

Next comes the scene in the dressing room of the ballet in which Miss Renault tells a new arrival from the country—Daisy Henderson—how to prosper in the life of the underworld.

Then the deserted wife is shown in an interview with a detective that she has employed and who informs her of her husband's relations with the ballet dancer.

Later the scene shifts to the apartments of Miss Renault. Here is where the orgy comes in. Wine flows freely, and everybody apparently becomes intoxicated to the point of losing all sense of propriety. Of course there are the old familiar scenes of dancing on the table and drinking wine out of the salver—it looked to be a No. 3 width in this case—of the underworld queen.

The Most Offensive Scene

What follows furnishes the most offensive scene of the play. It is perhaps just as well to draw the curtain on it and simply say that it is suggestively indecent, and that it does not have even the excuse for being presented that it is essential to the development of the story of the play.

Later the deserted wife visits the Renault apartments and begs the ballet dancer to give up her husband. She is repulsed and told bluntly "your husband is tired of you." The husband arrives with a box of roses for his feminine friend. He attempts to explain his compromising situation to his offended wife, but is informed by the queen of the underworld, "It's no use, she's a slut, she's wise." The wife leaves.

And when the husband shows symptoms of remorse, he is informed that he should be glad his wife "didn't shoot up the place." Then comes love-making that involves some physical exercise. A little later the ballet dancer's attitude toward married women whose home life she has disturbed, is revealed in her remark to Daisy Henderson, "When we fall for another woman's hard luck story, we are just plain dummies."

Then the play proceeds along the highroad of swiftest folly. The wife obtains a divorce, and Dick Wallace, a Pittsburgher of unlimited wealth and desire for pleasure, appears. Dick quickly becomes popular with the young women in the centre and on the fringe of underworld life. A scene is given that is described as an "Anti-dote for loneliness, sixth treatment."

Dick falls into the train of Miss Renault's admirers and there is much hugging and kissing, which the ballet dancer rebukes with the words, "Naughty, naughty, we're not even engaged, as she says, he's rich and she 'may love him some day.'"

Then comes another scene at the Frivoli with Miss Renault succeeded to the role of Miss Renault. Dick tires of his new wife and becomes enamored of the charms of Daisy. There is a scene between the former ballet dancer and her former protegee in which a danger makes its appearance, but is not used.

A little later Daisy and Dick disappear together from the story. The deserted Mrs. Overman and her husband are reunited, and as has been said above, the wicked ballet dancer is left standing upon the deck of a steamship gazing moodily at the sad sea waves.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performances of the great Thomas H. Ince production, "Below the Surface," starring Hobart Bosworth, will be given in the Merrimack Square theatre this evening. Tomorrow there will be an entire change of program for the week-end. Leading off a brilliant list of features will be William S. Hart in "The Toll Gate," said to be Hart's best effort in western productions. Hart has one of the most powerfully dramatic roles of his career as "Black Deering," the bandit chieftain in the story which was written by Lambert Lilley and himself.

This is a typical tale of the west or southwest in the days before the fences came; the days of bold bandits, of masked desperadoes, wild riders and Indians. It portrays with startling fidelity the characteristics of a picturesque page in the history of the border.

Black Deering, leader of the bandits, decides to disband and quit a life of crime, and leads the band into a trap, selling them out for thirty pieces of silver. All are killed or captured, except Deering. He acts out to revenge himself. He meets the woman who has been deserted by the

DRYS AND WETS CLASH

Bryan Asked Who Paid Him
for Speeches — Gompers
Asks Labor Plank

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Open warfare over prohibition, the Irish question and other troublesome issues of the democratic platform began yesterday in a stormy committee hearing while in private the leaders continued their negotiations for a settlement to keep the hostilities from spreading later to the floor of the convention itself.

A momentary defeat was administered the Bryan dry legions in full platform committee, when a parliamentary battle for position on the speakers' list was decided in favor of the wets by a vote of 27 to 25. The general implication, however, was to discount the significance of the vote, which was taken to decide which side should speak first.

Bryan Paid for Speeches

In the skirmish both wets and dries argued that their opponents were trying to reopen the prohibition issue and therefore should present their case first. When the dries were forced to go ahead, Mr. Bryan took charge of the time allotted to them, but divided all of it among other speakers representing the Anti-Saloon league, church associations, and other prohibition organizations.

For the wets, W. Bourke Cockran of New York was the chief spokesman during a debate in which Mr. Bryan was called upon to explain his connections with the Anti-Saloon league. He denied that he ever had received compensation from the league, except for four months of last year, for certain public speeches.

The Irish question was argued in such militant fashion that the crowded committee room was in almost constant uproar. Opponents of the proposal for recognition of the Irish republic were kept under a hail of heckling and derision from Irish sympathizers and once or twice were called short and ugly words while the committee chairman pounded unheeded with his gavel and sergeants-at-arms hustled with the crowd in an ineffectual effort to keep order.

The argument for the Irish recognition plank was led by Frank P. Walsh, and the opposition was handled by Demarest Lloyd of Boston, president of the loyal coalition.

Glass Repeats Bryan's Charge

Labor's platform was presented to the committee by Samuel Gompers, who declared the republican party had written reaction on its banners and that the labor vote must find some avenue elsewhere for expression of its desires.

The League of Nations, another subject threatening a convention floor fight, was not mentioned during the day's hearings, but there were many suggestions on almost every other political subject, prolonging the committee's deliberations into the evening.

The clash over which side should speak first came as soon as the committee took up the prohibition issue. Mr. Bryan and Mr. Cockran wrangled for half an hour on the point. Chairman Glass finally interrupted to say that it appeared that no one "wanted to talk," so the question would be passed over.

"This is not a time for joking," shouted Mr. Bryan.

"The chair is not joking," retorted Senator Glass, pounding the table, "and resents the suggestion."

On the motion by Borden Burr of Alabama, "that the dries speak first, Mr. Bryan demanded a roll call and the motion was adopted, 27 to 25.

Both sides then presented their cases. Presenting the petitions of the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Gompers said his program was designed to aid all wage-earners, organized or unorganized. He told the committee that unless the democrats took a progressive attitude they could not hope "to compete with a party that has written 'Reaction' across its banners."

"The republican party," said Mr. Gompers, "formulated a declaration of lack of principles of progress and safety that there must be some avenue in which the intelligent unrest among our people can find its expression and enforcement."

"Already the enemies of labor and the enemies of the democratic party are spreading an insidious propaganda, claiming to assume that we are coming here to hold a gun at your heads. But we do not come in a spirit of compulsion, but as your fellow-citizens asking for a declaration of progressive human rights."

Plank Tribute to Wilson

In the main, Mr. Gompers said, the proposals submitted by labor were the same as those written into the democratic platform of 1903, 1912 and 1916. He paid tribute to President Wilson and declared the keynote address of Chairman Cummings at the opening of the convention yesterday was one of the most masterful in recent American politics.

"There was not a sentence in that keynote," the labor leader said, "which could be objected to by any red-blooded American."

Frank Question

Frank P. Walsh, who was chairman of the Irish American committee to the peace conference, opened for the Friends of Irish Freedom, and delivered an address remarkable for its temperate character. Walsh's radicalism, on the subject in the past has frequently offended the officers of the Friends of Irish Freedom.

At the outset Walsh read the plank which he asked the committee to write into the platform. It follows: "Mindful of the circumstances of the birth of our own nation, we assert the principle that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. We will support the continuance of our long-established and lawful practice of opposing recognition without intervention in all cases where the people of a nation, as in Ireland, have by free vote of the people set up a republic and chosen a government to which they will willingly obedience. Therefore we pledge our party to the policy of according the republic of Ireland full, formal and official recognition by the government of the United States, thus vindicating the principle for which our soldiers offered up their lives."

Walsh Cites Precedents

Walsh declared that the democratic party has plenty of precedent for such action. He said that Thomas Jefferson laid down such a principle for the party when he advocated recognition of the French republic, in which he was opposed bitterly by Alexander Hamilton. He cited the recognition of Greece in 1824, although this country was at peace with Turkey, from which Greece had won independence, and the various recognitions accorded South American republics who won their independence from Spain in the last century.

"The Irish republic," he said, "was founded upon the utterances of two great democrats—Thomas Jefferson and Woodrow Wilson."

"One stated and the other reiterated in his fourteen points that just government could only rest upon the consent of the governed. The present Irish government was elected by a three-fourths majority, a greater majority than any president of the United States ever received."

Chairman Glass rapped his gavel sharply and turning to Lloyd said: "Any member of this committee has a right to question a speaker and is entitled to a courteous reply."

Lloyd began by saying that his side of the case had never been adequately presented by the "news-papers and newspapermen had been intimidated by the Sinn Fein propaganda."

He gave four reasons for opposing the incorporation of this plank in the platform, as follows:

"1.—That the Sinn Fein movement is not deserving of support in America."

"2.—The Irish question is a domestic one within the British empire."

"3.—That it is inconsistent with America's interest to allow this propaganda to continue."

"4.—That it would be unpatriotic and impolitic for the democratic party to adopt such a resolution."

During his remarks he was continually heckled by men and women in the back of the hall. One of his statements that it is costing the British governments millions to keep Ireland in a state of order, drew forth a wild cheer from his opponents.

Randolph Wellford Smith, realizing that he had a democratic audience, instantly began to attack the republican party.

"The only wise thing that that collection of clowns, mountebanks and mincepools at Chicago did," he said, "was to keep this question out of their platform," he declared. "The Sinn Feiners are more poisonous and dangerous to America than all the Bolsheviks and Soviets in the world."

"It is not difficult to realize how they are carrying on their propaganda," he said, "when we understand that they have taken $10,000,000 out of the pockets of the servant girls of America."

This remark brought forth a protest. A red-haired woman in the back of the hall, who had been holding aloof and waving the American and Irish flags, left her seat and rushed down the aisle toward Smith.

"I'll make him take back that dirty insult," she cried.

She was stopped by the sergeant-at-arms, but continued to struggle until two policemen escorted her from the hall. A man in the rear of the hall arose and, addressing the chair, said:

"I think it would be fitting for the chair to rebuke such an unwarranted insult to American womanhood." Smith rapidly ended the presentation of his case and the committee adjourned.

PRES. WILSON IS HIGHLY PLEASED

WASHINGTON, June 30.—President Wilson is elated with the proceedings so far of the democratic national convention at San Francisco. He is especially pleased with the tributes paid him in the form of the demonstration on the floor Monday and in the telegram of felicitation from the delegates.

The president cannot be quoted, nor has he made any official statement regarding the convention other than carried to San Francisco by his advisors, but it is possible to say authoritatively that Mr. Wilson is "highly pleased."

As in the proceedings at the republican convention in Chicago, every move that is made at San Francisco is almost instantly transmitted by a special telegraph wire run into the White House by one of the press associations, and as the bulletins are received they are sent to the president in his study.

According to attaches at the White House, the chief executive so far has made no comment on any of the bulletins, but Sec. Tumulty said last night that the president was very much pleased with the demonstration in his honor Monday.

Congressman Hiram of Alabama was a caller at the White House yesterday afternoon to discuss the political situation with Secretary Tumulty. Mr. Hiram predicted the nomination of William G. McAdoo for the presidency and Gov. Cox of Ohio for the vice presidency. His second choice for Cox was Gov. Fox for the presidency and Sec. of Agriculture Meredith for the vice presidency.

John A. Wilson of Franklin, Penn., cousin of the president, called at the White House yesterday.

"Mac was absolutely sincere when he announced that he did not want the democratic nomination for president," declared "Cousin John," referring to the statement of William G. McAdoo. "He told me he was 'broke' when he resigned as secretary of the treasury, and you know I believe had any notion of going after or wanting the nomination I would know something about it."

"I have been for 'Mitch' Palmer, first, last and all the time, as he is one of the best fellows I ever knew. 'Woodrow has never mentioned a word about candidates and I am sure he has no choice. He is for the treaty of peace and beyond that he has not the slightest interest in the candidates."

TO NAME McADOO AT FIRST OPPORTUNITY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—The name of William Gibbs McAdoo, ex-secretary of the treasury, will be placed formally in nomination at the convention "at the earliest opportunity," his supporters decided at a conference yesterday. Presentation of McAdoo's name will be by Burriss A. Jenkins, a Kansas City minister.

Tentative arrangements for the McAdoo committee that is to work in the convention have been practically completed. Under the leadership of Samuel B. Amidon of Wichita, Kan., a steering committee, consisting of half a dozen first lieutenants and one man or woman from each state has been perfected.

LOOK OUT FOR REPUBLICANS!

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—At yesterday's session of the democratic national convention Secretary Hoffman announced that the convention had a special hospital in the building with physicians and nurses for any emergency.

"Do they write prescriptions?" inquired a delegate from the floor, amid a gale of laughter.

"It is a regular hospital," responded Secretary Hoffman to scattering applause.

Then one of the secretaries announced that $1,000,000 of California gold was on exhibition near the hall for the delegates to go and look at.

"Look out the republicans don't get it," shouted a delegate, and the convention had another laugh.

Speeches to five and limited to not more than three to a candidate each of possibilities had not more than 35 minutes for full description of his merits and capacity for the nation's highest gift. Working under that high-gear program, it was within the range of possibilities that the nomination speeches would all be delivered today, thus clearing the way for the presentation of the platform the first thing Thursday morning if the resolutions committee can complete it by that time.

Speeches were on the program nominating William G. McAdoo, Atty. Gen. Palmer, Governor Cox, Chairman Homer S. Cummings of the national convention, Governor Edwards, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, Sen. Owen, and John W. Davis, ambassador to Great Britain.

At the eleventh hour friends of William G. McAdoo abandoned efforts to prevent his being placed in formal nomination.

Jenkins to Name McAdoo

Mr. Burriss Jenkins of Kansas City will deliver the nominating speech for Mr. McAdoo, Atty. Gen. Palmer, and Mrs. Peter Olson of Chicago, Minn., will make seconding speeches.

Decision to have Dr. Jenkins speak was not reached definitely until today because certain of McAdoo's friends thought his last telegram urging that a speech should not be made should be adhered to. It was thought by some, however, that a nominating speech should be delivered in fairness to the delegates, who if no mention were made of Mr. McAdoo during the nominating speeches might be in the dark as to his position in the convention.

No effort was made to get in touch with Mr. McAdoo, but it was not thought he would make further protest against the plans of his friends. They were generally agreed that no further statement of any kind would be forthcoming until after the convention nominates a candidate. The total McAdoo strength on the first ballot, according to the latest estimates of McAdoo supporters will approximate 300 votes. Some say it will not be more than 250 while others insist it will run over 300.

Thus far the McAdoo men said they have suffered only one defection. The Maryland delegation which had been counted in their column will cast its first vote for John W. Davis, according to information given out early today. The McAdoo supporters said they expect Maryland's votes to return to them after a few ballots.

Cox and Palmer Confident

Both the Cox and Palmer forces viewed with evident satisfaction the scrimmage within the McAdoo forces which was threatening to bring McAdoo to the front once and make the nomination a three-cornered contest from the beginning. They have insisted all along that they would not permit the McAdoo movement to enjoy the advantage of a reserved seat in the rear to wait for a psychological moment when the convention, unable to throw a two-thirds vote to either of them, would turn to someone else.

Palmer headquarters, in a formal statement, that the attorney general's position was "stronger than it ever has been before," announced that his forces were intact and claimed votes in the convention which would not be shown on the first ballot because they would be cast for favorite sons and come to the Palmer column later. Cox forces, professedly undisturbed by the wet and dry argument which has raged around their candidate, and the outside issues which have been injected into his campaign were tightening up their lines and were ready to start the balloting.

Dark Horse Talk

Despite the promise that the convention would have a big three at the outset dark horse talk was never more persistent than it is at the moment the candidates are about to be placed in nomination. The names of Vice-

Dublin Railway Terminus Tied Up

DUBLIN, June 30.—The railway terminus here was tied up this morning as a result of the refusal of the railway men to move trains boarded by police or soldiers, causing a complete stoppage of all trains for the south. The people of Dublin, foreseeing such a situation, had begun hoarding food, notwithstanding the efforts of the authorities to prevent hoarding.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Only one New York evening newspaper will be sold for two cents after tomorrow, following the announcement today that the price of the Evening Sun and the Evening Telegram will be increased to three cents because of increased cost of publication.

Census Returns Announced Today

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Census returns announced today included San Luis Obispo, Cal., 5895; increase 738, or 14.3 per cent. Alameda County, Cal., including Oakland, 341,127; increase 97,996, or 39.86.

Pres. Wilson Receives Resolution

WASHINGTON, June 30.—A telegraphic copy of the resolution adopted by the democratic national convention praising the achievements of President Wilson in the conduct of the war and congratulating him on his recovery was delivered today to the president. It had been delayed in transit. There was no intimation as to whether the president would send a reply.

President Marshall, John W. Davis, and Homer C. Cummings, were always heard when dark horses were being discussed, and delegates were taking into consideration that each of the big three could prevent the others from getting two-thirds vote.

Cummings Boom Grows

The Cummings boom grew from a mere demonstration of enthusiasm to formidable proportions in the 24 hours which followed the chairman's opening address and today it had taken full form with hand bills being circulated, the delegates declaring "A great moment has produced a great man." Democrats throughout the country, too, were responding to that sentiment apparently, for the national chairman's desk was piled high with congratulatory telegrams.

The South common will not be permitted next Sunday, July 4.

Mr. Kernan says that a large number of the people who have rented lots on the common have done so with the understanding that they would be allowed to sell refreshments on Sunday and inasmuch as the city is to have two hand concerts on the common on that date, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening, he believes that the hundreds of people who will go to enjoy the music should have the right to purchase tonic or whatever other refreshments the vendors may have on sale. He is to take the matter up with Mayor Thompson to see if this action of the license commission cannot be amended.

VOLUNTEER STORY TELLERS WANTED

In planning the activities of the International Institute for the summer, Miss Edna Merrill, director, has been hampered somewhat by the lack of volunteer story tellers.

Her idea is to have at least one story teller who may visit various districts in the city at least once each week and mingle with the children telling stories, and then directing and taking part in their play. The plan has been successful in other cities and Miss Merrill claims that it is only the lack of volunteers which holds back the work in this city. Such work as this is especially needed in the foreign districts.

In developing the proposition, Miss Merrill says that if a story teller's league connected with the national organization were formed in this city with the idea of training young women in social work, particularly in story telling, there would be no lack of volunteers in the future.

Besides the hikes, picnics and lawn parties which are held from time to time, the summer activities of the International Institute will include the maintaining of the game room for children in headquarters, and the events sponsored by the troop of Greek scout girls including various excursions into the country under the scout leader. Other clubs connected with the Institute are planning for events in the open and Miss Merrill will assume charge of the numerous outings which are planned for the little children of various districts of the city.

The members of the Greek handicraft class are turning out some very beautiful specimens which include all kinds of fancy work, dresses, waists and so on. The committee in charge of this class plans to put many of the articles made on sale at Hyannis and various resorts along the North shore. Miss Ruth Burke is taking charge of this class in the absence of Mrs. H. K. White and the other members of the committee are Mrs. A. G. Murkland and Miss Nesmith.

SCHOOLS FOR BABY CLINIC STATIONS

Mrs. Kate Kohlsaat of the Lowell Guild has secured permission to use the Elliot and Greenhalge schools as baby clinic stations during the coming summer months. The work at these stations will be carried on in the same manner as at the guild headquarters in Dutton street, a doctor and nurse being present at both places at a designated time once each week to render aid to mothers who apply.

This step was thought advisable through the warm weather to bring the assistance of the guild nearer to the people and to encourage mothers of those districts to visit the stations each week.

The International Institute plans to co-operate with the Lowell Guild in obtaining a nurse for mothercraft in the Portuguese district and in keeping one at the institute headquarters in Palmer street during the summer.

CHILDREN'S PICNIC AT NABNASSETT

About 50 French children between the ages of 5 and 13 enjoyed a picnic at Nabnasset this afternoon under the direction of Miss Edna Merrill of the International Institute. The Lowell Gas Light company gave the use of one of their huge trucks to convey the children to and from the picnic grounds and the Page company kindly furnished ice cream to the little ones. Miss Merrill in choosing the children for the picnic took them from the congested districts. It was the first of a series of outings which Miss Merrill is planning for the children of various neighborhoods with the assistance of the different firms and corporations in the city.

WAS WOMAN CHARMER

Model Tells How Slain "Card King" Charmed Fifty Girls

BY H. P. BURTON, N.E.A. Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 30.—Why did all women "fall for" middle-aged Joseph Bowne Elwell, the "card king of America," whose mysterious murder in his New York home has disclosed the fact that his feminine intimates numbered more than 50 young girls of extraordinary beauty?

I asked this question today of Beatrice Tremaine, the New York artist's model, one of whose letters was found in the home of Elwell, and whose name, therefore, has been linked with the case. I found Miss Tremaine with her mother in their elegantly appointed apartment overlooking Washington square at Fifth avenue, and in culture and looks she transcended even her reputation.

"Women liked Mr. Elwell," she said, pensively, "because he was always a gentleman in their presence. He treated them as a courtier might treat a queen—not, of course, acting as though he were an inferior in any way, but rather as though he could not do other than maintain the perfect, impersonal attitude of one without presumptuousness."

"This manner of detachment, of course, made for enchantment with women, because it imparted to him an air of melancholy indifference; and, say what you will, women's interest is piqued by an indifference to their charms. A man who falls too easily a victim soon becomes a bore; the challenge is gone from the relationship, and woman, always something of a huntress herself, begins casting glances in other directions. There is no woman living who does not want to have to battle a little to win a man. Nothing worth having, woman knows, comes without struggling for it."

"In addition to this great gentleness with women, his air of intrinsic difference toward them, Joe Elwell had all the social graces and the social equipment needed to solidify his natural attractiveness. We played bridge, as everyone knows, with brilliant dash; he danced divinely; he was of most pleasing appearance, tall and lithe and hard; he drove his motor superbly; he talked well and exhibited a mind trained and cultured, and he had three homes furnished with rare taste, where he entertained really well."

"I met him first at Long Beach, on Long Island, the summer Irene and Vernon Castle had their dance-restaurant there; mother and I had a cottage there, and so had Joe. I was introduced to him, as I recall it, by Charles Cherry, the actor, a friend of mine. I was asked to several dinner parties that Joe gave, and it was merely a formal note of thanks for these that was found in the Elwell town-house after the murder. I was not much more than a child at the time, and in the past two years I have not seen Joe at all. I was in Florida this winter, but mother and I went there to rest and we didn't go out at all."

"But I remember Joe as though I had seen him yesterday; he was not the sort of a man a woman forgets—because he had a way with women that few men are wise enough to adopt, the way of a gentleman. The kind of woman who affects men's collars and heavy walking shoes may like men friends who hit her on the back, but the real woman, the man's woman, prefers to be treated as served as lieutenant governor in our states and we both have learned from experience, how possible it is for a second official in a state to be a helpful part in a party administration.

"I think the vice president should be more than a mere substitute in waiting. In re-establishing co-ordination between the executive office of the vice-president and ought to play a big part, and I have been telling Governor Coolidge how much I wish him to not only be a participant in the campaign, but also as a helpful part of a republican administration."

"The country needs the counsel and the becoming participation in the government of such men as Governor Coolidge."

"Governor Coolidge's statement follows: 'I am here to co-operate with my associate. We have many problems ahead. Many men have many remedies. The best remedy is the observance of the constitution and the laws, not their enforcement, mind you. I am not now speaking of that. Of course, the government will enforce the laws. That is far from enough. There must be a return of public opinion toward self-control by the people, toward a great and overmastering desire to observe the law. When that is done the other problems will fall away and there will be peace, prosperity and progress.'

COMMUNITY CLUB OF CHELMSFORD

A largely attended meeting of the Community club of Chelmsford was held last evening in the Centre town hall, and a feature of the meeting was the election of officers, which resulted as follows: Mrs. W. K. Putney, president; Mrs. C. V. Hazeltine, vice president; Mrs. Frank Lupien, treasurer; Mrs. G. Thomas Parkhurst, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Paul Dutton, recording secretary; Mrs. William H. Hall, ticket custodian; Mrs. William E. Belleville, chairman; Mrs. C. A. Dane, Mrs. Leicester I. Smith, Mrs. Lena Taylor and Mrs. F. F. Wiegman, work committee.

At the close of the business meeting Architect Willard P. Alden of Reading spoke interestingly on "Community Day," while brief remarks were also made by Miss Margaret Robinson. There were orchestra selections and at the conclusion of the program refreshments were served by the work committee.

EXPERT IMPROVISES DYNAMITE "BONFIRE"

State Chemist Walter Wedger of Boston, an expert on explosives, directed the burning of 200 defective sticks of dynamite in the city sand bank at the rear of the Chelmsford street hospital late yesterday afternoon. The dynamite had been moved to the sand bank, the city's storage place for explosives, some time ago, and recently it was noted that the nitroglycerine was dripping out of the boxes containing the dynamite. An explosion might have resulted eventually and it was decided to adopt safety first methods by burning the dynamite. Mr. Wedger spread the 200 sticks over the sand bar and set fire to them. The dynamite was burned without accident to anybody. Chief Edward F. Saunders of the local fire department accompanied Mr. Wedger on his mission of destruction.

MILLS CLOSE FOR INDEFINITE PERIOD

Notices were posted yesterday afternoon in the various departments of the Merrimack Woolen mills at the Dracut navy yard, announcing a suspension of operations for an indefinite period, beginning tonight. It is claimed that the refusal of the employees to return to the wages paid previous to June 1 is the cause of the shut-down.

When the last increase in wages was granted, so the employees claim,

"Every night when I go to bed, I wind my watch and every morning after getting up, I crank my Mack. I am just as confident that one will run as the other."—From one letter out of hundreds we should like you to read.

ONLY the established record measurements and quality of every part entering into the construction of a Mack Truck can produce results which bring such an enthusiastic tribute as this from a satisfied Mack owner.

Distinctive Mack engineering features combined with 18 basic Mack patents have developed the motor truck the world is talking about.

Capacities 1½ to 7½ tons, tractors to 15 tons.

Agent Morrison gave the workers the preference of accepting the advance and with it a curtailment in the working hours, or to work under the old wage scale and get full time. The workers preferred to accept the increase and a curtailment in all departments to three days a week followed. This week, the overseers again presented the wage issue to the employees, who were told that unless they agreed to return to the wages paid previous to June 1, a shut-down would be necessary, and the employees refused to compromise with the result that notices were posted yesterday.

THE O. M. I. CADETS PREPARE FOR CAMP

About 200 members of the O.M.I. Cadets attended a very enthusiastic meeting last night in the cadet armory in East Merrimack street when plans for the annual encampment at Milligan's grove, Wilmington, August 2 to 7, were discussed.

Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O.M.I., spiritual director for the cadets, addressed the gathering and promised several new features in connection with this year's camp. As is the annual custom the inspection will be made by regular army officers on the camp grounds, and the entire equipment will be kept in first class trim.

The tour of duty will also include sports and plenty of time for social hours. Visitors will be allowed in the camp after the first day. Different men will be present during the encampment.

ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT

Work on Foundations for Large Addition to Local Plant Now Under Way

Ground has been broken and work is underway on the foundations for a large addition to the plant of the Lowell Electric Light Corp. on Perry street. The new building is to be located between the railroad tracks and Perry street.

Preparations for erecting the new building have been going on since Jan. 1, when a representative of the Stone & Webster company of Boston, which concern is to have charge of the erection of the new structure, arrived on the ground. It is stated, on good authority, that at least a year is likely to elapse before the work is completed.

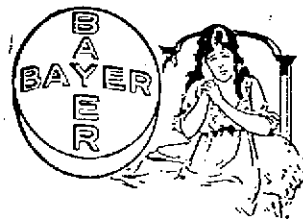

The site of the new building is on land that has mostly been made by filling and it is understood that a large number of piles that are already on the ground will be driven as foundation supports. The present station of the electric light company is of about 9000 kilowatts capacity, and is understood to be much below the average size for cities of the size of Lowell. This is said to be partly due to the fact that the large mills have their own individual power stations. A large part of the capacity of the present station is given up to furnishing current for lighting with only a comparatively small part of it being used for power purposes.

U. S. CARTRIDGE CO. Motor Transportation Department Practically Abolished

The motor transportation department of the United States Cartridge company, which has been gradually reduced during the past few months, was practically abolished today when the last of the machines used by that department were transferred elsewhere and the few remaining employees were given positions in other departments if they desired them.

At one time the transportation department of the company was one of its biggest features and a battery of cars was ready for instant service night or day. However, the gradual reduction of the activities at the big plant has lessened the demand for such service until finally it has been abolished.

The government is still supervising the manufacture of military munitions at the plant, although it had been expected that it would release its control on July 1. However, the situation has not yet reached the point where the federal authorities wish to surrender their entire interest in the plant and, according to an official of the company, this interest will probably remain for some time to come, although it is known that the government wishes to surrender its supervision as soon as practicable. A committee representing the Cartridge company and the government has been appointed to handle the details of the relations of the two bodies.

CARMEN WANT 75 CENTS AN HOUR

Atty. Vahey Pleads for Increase for Employees of Eastern Mass. St. Railway

Also Seek Day Off in 15 With Pay, and Time and a Half for Overtime

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 30.—Declaring that employees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company are among the lowest paid of any street railway employees in the state, Atty. James H. Vahey presented wage demands calling for an increase from 51 cents to 75 cents an hour, at the hearing begun at the state house yesterday by the arbitration board which is to pass upon the wage controversy between the men and the company.

"The employees of this company last received an increase under the award of the national war labor board, on Aug. 12 of last year," said Counsel Vahey, who is one of the three arbitrators to decide the case. "The maximum rate, applying to employees one year in the service of the company, was raised from 45 to 51 cents an hour, and made retroactive to June 3, 1919. By the terms of that award, the men receive 46 cents an hour during the first three months, 46 cents during the next nine months, and 51 cents thereafter."

"Beginning May 1, 1919, the Boston Elevated employees received 50 cents an hour. Wages paid other street railway employees of the state last year were: Middlesex & Boston Street Railway company, 65 cents; Holyoke Street Railway company, 55 cents; Springfield Street Railway company, Worcester Consolidated, Interstate Consolidated, Milford, Attleboro & Woonsocket lines, 57 cents; Union Street Railway company, New Bedford, 60 cents; Fitchburg & Leominster, 57 cents, and Boston & Worcester, 53 cents. I can think of but one system of any size where the wages last year were less than the wages paid employees of the Eastern Massachusetts."

Want Day Off With Pay

In addition to the demand for 75 cents an hour, the men ask for one day off in 15, with pay, overtime at the rate of time and one-half for all work performed on Sundays and holidays and additional pay, to be fixed by the arbitrators for operators of "one-man" cars. The schedule is retroactive to May 1, 1920.

Hugh W. Ogden, a Boston attorney, and chairman of the arbitration board which will decide the questions at issue, presided at the hearing. The other members of the board are Philip C. Carlton, of the counsel for the company, and Mr. Vahey.

Attorney Carleton was assisted by Homer Loring, chairman of the trustees, and by Henry F. Hurlburt, of the law firm of Hurlburt, Jones & Cabot of Boston. William Murphy, president, and Charles A. Taylor, secretary of the employees union, affiliated with the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, assisted Attorney Vahey in presenting the case for the men.

"COME IN; THE WATER'S FINE"

Mr. Vahey charged that the Eastern Massachusetts trustees are "fining up the public, even union men themselves" against their own men, spreading the impression that if any increase in wages is allowed, it will have to come out of the pockets of the traveling public.

He maintained that his clients should receive a wage large enough to maintain their families at the high living costs brought about in part by the increased incomes enjoyed by the people they are daily serving.

"Under present conditions," he declared, "the trolley men are receiving only a subsistence wage," not one which will allow them to support their families in comfort and decency, which is the American standard of living."

Would Encourage Matrimony

In reply to a question from Attorney Hurlburt, Mr. Vahey expressed the opinion that single men should receive as high a wage as married ones. In order that they might be encouraged to marry and bring up children. He thought that many of the employees in the past have refrained from this course in the fear that they could not properly provide for their dependents.

For the foregoing reason, he added, the question of the financial condition of the company should not be taken into consideration in passing upon the case. All previous arbitration hearings, he said, have been based on the premise that public welfare should be considered before the question of corporation dividends.

Harry L. Coolidge, operator of a one-man car, on the Middlesex and Boston system, testified concerning the alleged difficulty of doing the work of both motorman and conductor, required in running a one-man car. In answer to questions by Attorney Hurlburt for the company, Mr. Coolidge said that as compared with the wages paid on the regular, two-man cars, operators of the one-man vehicles should receive time and one-half.

James O'Grady of Lawrence said that he had been employed on a one-man car in Lawrence but gave it up after five weeks. "The company could not pay me enough to run one of these cars now," he said. In answer to questions by Attorney Vahey, for the men, O'Grady testified that he worked as a conductor for the Bay State Street Railway company from 1913 to 1917, when he entered the army, serving 22 months with the 26th Division. After his return from the war he worked four months on the Massachusetts Northeastern Street Railway company lines in Haverhill. In November last year he again went to work for the Eastern Massachusetts, and although he had previously served four years with the company, was obliged to begin at the foot of the list as a spare man, receiving 46 cents an hour. His present rate is 49 cents an hour, he said. Answering questions by Attorney Hurlburt, he said he would prefer to leave the company and seek other employment unless a substantial increase is granted.

"Couldn't a woman do the work that you were doing on the cars just as well?" asked Mr. Hurlburt.

"One-Man Car Condemned"

"Well, I shouldn't want any of my female relatives doing it," was the reply.

"Would you expect a woman to climb on top of a car and fix the trolley?" asked Attorney Vahey.

"No," said O'Grady.

"How many times did you have to do this?" Vahey continued.

"About a hundred times, I should say."

"Didn't you have occasion to take care of intoxicated and disorderly persons?"

"Yes, of course," replied O'Grady.

The witness was unsparing in his condemnation of the one-man cars as dangerous to the public, placing too much responsibility on the operator and generally inefficient in operation.

Charter Commission

The resolve provided that the mayor should appoint a commission of 15 men before July 1 to study the charter situation with a view to determining the best form of government for this community.

The resolve stipulated that the commission's personnel should be divided as equally as possible among democrats and republicans and that each ward of the city have at least one representative.

The mayor has appointed a commission of eight republicans and seven democrats and has also lived up to the stipulation of having each ward represented. Ward 5 has two representatives, ward 8, four and ward 9 three.

Who They Are

Harry Swann is an employee of the Merrimack Mfg. Co. and for many years has been actively interested in city government matters.

Henry F. Doran is employed at the Saco-Lowell Co.'s shops and has been prominent as a member of the democratic city committee.

Royal K. Dexter is the well known manager of the S. K. Dexter wholesale produce company in Middlesex street. He has been active in local politics for many years and has served in the old common council and board of aldermen.

Timothy O'Rourke will be the laboring element's representative on the commission. He has taken an active interest in democratic affairs and labor matters for some time.

John C. Farrington is a former chairman of the school committee and is an accountant by profession.

Charles D. Slattery is manager of the Talbot Clothing Co. and has been active in political circles for many years.

Louis P. Turcotte has been a prominent merchant in Lowell for years and has played a prominent part in republican circles.

J. C. Mansueau is the proprietor of a men's furnishings store in Merrimack street and is one of the leading republicans of Ward 7.

Abel R. Campbell is the well known real estate man. He has been prominent in local circles for some time.

James B. Casey is a former mayor of Lowell, having served under the old form of charter. He has long been a leading figure in democratic circles.

Albert D. Milliken is agent of the Hamilton Mfg. Co. and prominent in the city's industrial and financial circles.

George M. Harrigan is president of the Lowell Trust Co. and a staunch member of the democratic party.

James E. O'Donnell was Lowell's first mayor under the present form of charter. He has been a deep student of municipal affairs for many years.

Arthur T. Safford is engineer of the Locks and Canals and always an interested and active worker in city projects.

John P. Sawyer is cashier of the Union National bank and a prominent member of the republican party.

Mayor Thompson took every bit of time allotted him by the terms of the resolve providing for the commission in an endeavor to secure a body who could give the charter question impartial study and consideration. More than a hundred names have been considered at one time or another and only after a careful process of selection did His Honor determine upon the final personnel as announced today.

The commission has in its makeup men who have been actively engaged in municipal management, bank and industrial men, a representative of the labor organizations, merchants, and lawyer. An unusual fact in connection with the body is the fact that there is but one lawyer on it, former Mayor O'Donnell. Usually in a commission of this size there are at least three or four representatives of the legal profession.

There has been considerable speculation as to who the chairman of the commission will be. The name of former Mayor Casey has been frequently mentioned and later when it became definitely known that Mr. O'Donnell and Mr. Farrington were to be chosen, their names have also been mentioned for the position. The chairman, of course, will be chosen by the commission itself.

The commission will be furnished quarters at city hall, its expenses will be paid by the city. It will have the power to summon witnesses to give testimony relative to local charter conditions and it may call public meetings, if it so chooses. It is probable that the mayor will ask the members to meet in a few days for organization. Each of the 15 men appointed have definitely accepted the position.

BUILDING PERMIT

John A. Simpson has been issued a permit at the office of the building inspector to erect a two-story workroom and store at 37-3 Paige street, at an estimated cost of $16,000. The building will be of brick construction with concrete foundation and will be used by the Bromley-Shepard company.

RACE ON COMMON

The park department will sponsor a 10-mile race on the North common next Monday afternoon, July 5, beginning at 3 o'clock. Suitable prizes will be awarded the winners. Entries should be made with Supt. John W. Kernan at the park department office at city hall. A similar race was held last year and brought forth a large field of contestants.

Platform Builders Agree on "Slightly Moist" Prohibition Plank—League Plank "Just as Woodrow Wants It" Also Agreed Upon

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—According to administration chiefs the sub-committee of nine drafting the democratic platform has practically agreed on a prohibition plank which is described as "slightly moist" and as being in "support of the constitutional amendment," but with declarations for personal liberty and against "excessive interference."

A careful count of the full committee and a survey of the convention, also administration chiefs said, made them confident that William J. Bryan could not get his prohibition plank into the platform. The agreement was in such form, they said, that it was not improbable that their work would be laid before the full committee on resolutions late this afternoon.

Agree on League Plank

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—A League of Nations plank, the same administration chiefs said, has been agreed upon "just as Woodrow wants it, without the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 't'."

As forecast it follows almost identically the line of the Virginia platform previously approved by President Wil-

INCREASE IN TAX RATE

Assessors Predict Increase of 73 Cents if Present Valuations Stand

There will be an increase of at least 73 cents in the tax rate this year, if present valuations stand, caused merely by the increase in the county and state taxes which the city is to be called upon to pay, the board of assessors announced this morning. The assessors have just received notification that this city's share of the 1920 county tax has been fixed at $130,761.10, in comparison with $120,457.16 for 1919, or an increase of more than $10,000.

The state tax for 1920, which was announced several weeks ago, will take $253,450 more out of the city's coffers, while last year it took only $234,320, representing an increase this year of approximately $19,000. This combined increase of $44,000 in state and county taxes will be reflected in the tax rate this year to the tune of 73 cents per $100, the assessors figure, providing valuation remains as it is now.

An increase of 73 cents would make the tax rate $25.73, the present rate being $25.

DRUGGISTS DISCUSS SALE OF LIQUOR

The alleged strictness of internal revenue regulations governing the sale of alcoholic liquors was the principal subject of discussion at a meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms this morning of the Lowell Druggists association. The discussion followed the presentation by President Fred Jones of the report of the committee that attended a recent meeting of the State Druggists association at which the same subject was considered. Several of the members present told of the difficulties experienced in trying to comply with rules now in force and expressed disapproval of them.

It was decided at the meeting that the places of business of the members shall be closed at 11.30 a. m., Thursday, July 15, to permit the owners and their employees to take part in the annual outing of the druggists at Bass Point. The trip from this city to the seashore is to be made in automobiles. Following dinner at Bass Point, it is expected that there will be a baseball game between nine representing the drug men of Lowell and Haverhill. Later there will be held sports. The local committee in charge of arrangements for the event is made up of John F. Walsh and H. R. Campbell.

HARDING AND COOLIDGE MEET

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Senator Harding of Ohio and Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts, republican nominees for president and vice-president, met today for the first time since the Chicago convention selected them as the party standard bearers for 1920. Arriving here late last night, Governor Coolidge was the guest of the senator at breakfast and later accompanied the presidential nominee to his office at the capitol for the first of the official conferences between the candidates. Chairman Hays of the republican national convention will take part in some of the conferences. Subjects to be discussed by the candidates are understood to include the addresses to be given during the coming notification ceremonies and plans for the campaign.

Demand 24 Cents a Pound for Sugar

HAVANA, Cuba, June 30.—Cuban cane growers, sugar mills, and brokers, claiming to control the sale of 2,180,000 sacks of unsold sugar, were on record today as definitely pledged not to offer any more sugar for sale until the price had reached 24 cents a pound, the level reached during the last half of May.

SPION KOP'S WIN WAS NO FLUKE

The picture shows Spion Kop being led by his owner, Captain Giles Loder, just after the horse had won the greatest racing event in the world, the derby at Epsom Downs.

Spion Kop was considered a rank outsider, the odds being 100 to 1 against him, but Frankie O'Neill, the American jockey, seen astride him, piloted him to victory.

O'Neill has been riding in France for a good many years, being first jockey at a big trainer to W. K. Vanderbilt's stable at Poissy. He is immensely popular on the Continent, where he is rated one of the finest jockeys in the world.

It is a coincidence that the sire of Spion Kop—Spartan—was owned by the Loder family, also won the derby—1906—and also was ridden by an American, Danny Maher. In the race of June 2 last, Spartan, the favorite, did not even come within the money.

That Spion Kop's win was no fluke

is shown by the fact that the horse broke all Epsom Downs records for the classic event, the time being 2 minutes 24.4 seconds or two-fifths of a second less than the previous record time held by Lombard in 1910.

Police Chiefs Want to Finger-Print Everybody

News Item—The International police chiefs, in convention at Detroit, solemnly recommended a federal law requiring the registration, by fingerprint, of every man, woman and child in the United States!

BY HAL M. COCHRAN

You had better dodge all portions of the well-known poker game; And you'd best cut out the liquor; If you'd save your spotless name; 'Cause the eager sleuths are clever; And they know what they're about; And your finger-prints will queer you

And for goodness sake be careful; When there comes a rainy day; It is likely you will borrow— An umbrella, we will say; And, of course, you won't return it; No one does—but let us shout; That your finger-prints will queer you

"Isn't safe, so we are thinkin'." To go steppin' out at night; While the girl may be your sweet-heart; Even so, it isn't right; You may hold her hand, for instance; And she doesn't mind, no doubt; But your finger-prints will queer you

"Mustn't touch," will be the slogan; And "win weary" every day; You will wonder what you've fingered; When your daily work is done; 'Cause they'll have you in their rec-ord; And there is no use to pout; For your finger-prints will queer you

Accepts Report on Vocational School—Other Business

The school committee voted to accept the report of Henry L. Williams, business agent of the department, relative to additions and repairs to the Vocational school in Broadway and to ask the public property department to act on recommendations in the report, at the regular meeting of the committee last evening.

A list of routine business was also transacted. Major Colby T. Kittredge was appointed instructor of physical training in the Vocational school and instructed to conduct a summer camp for the boys of the high and Vocational schools, if possible. In addition, he will continue his duties as military instructor at the high school. His salary was fixed at $2000, beginning July 1.

The resignations of Miss Ellen McQuade of the high school and Mrs. A. Gertrude Stiles of the Bartlett school were accepted.

Miss Ella L. Gardner of the Charles street school was retired under the retirement pension rule.

Permission was granted the Lowell Guild to establish two additional baby stations for the summer, in the Green-halge and Elliot schools.

The regular routine election of teachers already employed went through as usual.

John J. Gibb was elected head of the automobile department of the Vonational school, on recommendation of Principal Fisher. Salary, $2000.

Leo A. King, master of the Edison school, having requested that a portable building be placed at that school, the superintendent was instructed to take up the matter with the public property department.

On the nomination of Principal Clarence M. Weed, Miss Frances Moriarty was elected a teacher in the Bartlett school, at a salary of $1450. The superintendent recommended the election of the following teachers for the continuation schools:

Academic subjects for boys: Charles D. Foley, James J. Clifton, William J. Reardon.

Instructors in shop work for boys: Charles W. Frost, Raymond W. Slater, William C. Hamann.

Academic subjects for girls: Anna T. McCarron, Katherine C. O'Neill, Julia M. Driscoll (already teachers in the elementary schools).

Domestic science and household arts for girls: M. Katherine Gallagher, Margaret Harrington, Elizabeth Reagan.

The superintendent's recommendations were accepted and the teachers elected, although Chairman Delaney and Mr. Markham were in opposition. Salaries for the women teachers were fixed at $1650 a year and for men teachers at $1800.

Charles J. Rogers and Christine M. Kane were assigned as teachers at the vacation centre in the Greenhalge school district.

There was a prolonged discussion relative to the ranking of teachers' examination papers. Chairman Del-aney contended that the ranks of all those who take such examinations should be in the possession of the school department. In the past, it has been the custom to ask some outside school department to rank the papers and to send the local department names of the highest on the list only as they were needed to fill positions. As a result, the young women who take the teachers' examination have no way of learning just what rank they attained. Mr. Markham supported the chairman in his contention, but Messrs. Keyes and Pearson took an opposite view. It was finally voted to direct the superintendent to ask the Worcester school department, which is marking the local papers at the present time, to send the 25 highest numbers, representing young women who took the examination, and to furnish the rest not later than Jan. 1.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS EVERY MORNING

BY ROGER W. BABSON.

Old Peter Glenn is still talking about the Klondike.

"Now if I'd packed my kit back in '97 when the boys wanted me to go, I'd have been a millionaire by this time." He's repeated that on the average six times a week for twenty years. He always ends up by allowing that "Every man has one big opportunity, and if he doesn't grab it he's always out of luck."

There's a lot of chaps running around bawling the fact that they missed their main chance. It was that fortune knocked once upon a time, but they were out. The fact is, they have missed several thousand chances since then by wasting time. There is no corner on opportunity. Our lives are divided up into days and years, with an extra one every five years, just for good measure. One of the most interesting things about living is the fact that every morning is a new beginning, and we can always about face and start all over again, no matter how many mistakes we have made, no matter how many opportunities we have missed.

The man who wrote that fallacy about "opportunity knocks but once" has cost thousands of men success in life. He is wrong. Opportunity knocks on your door every morning about six o'clock.

DISAPPOINTED AT NEW COAL ORDERS FOR N. E.

BOSTON, June 30.—The action of the interstate commerce commission in modifying its priority order in such a way that New England may have its pro rata share of cars available for coal transportation, but cannot claim any extra cars, was denounced yesterday by James J. Storow, chairing yesterday the extreme.

The chief difficulty in the way of New England's receiving coal lies in the shortage of transportation facilities, according to Mr. Storow. "We simply ask the interstate commerce commission, which has authority both over transportation facilities and pier capacity," explained the fuel commissioner yesterday, "to exercise this authority and to remedy the existing shortage."

"We are asking only our accustomed and rightful share of both, just as we are asking only our accustomed share of coal. We seek no coal which belongs to any other section of this country; only what rightfully should come to us and which is now being sent abroad."

David A. Ellis, public utilities commissioner, who accompanied Mr. Storow to Washington recently, was in consultation with him yesterday afternoon at his office, 44 State street. Mr. Ellis said this section objects to being deprived of its fair share of coal for the benefit of mine operators who prefer to make a greater profit by sending it to Europe.

"No less than 450,000 tons of our coal is being ruthlessly sent abroad each month," declared Mr. Ellis, "by men whose attitude is that New England may go hang, for all they care. It is our coal that they are sending away, and our fair and accustomed share and no one else's."

Under the present ruling of the interstate commerce commission Mr. Storow is wondering how New England is to secure an adequate supply of bituminous coal for the coming winter. The fuel situation here is more serious now, he maintains, than at any previous time.

Only yesterday, Mr. Storow stated, he learned of a steamer cargo of coal being sold in Boston harbor for $23 a ton. This is the highest price yet heard of, Mr. Storow pointed out that soft coal formerly sold at the water front for between $4 and $5 a ton, and that during the terrible winter of 1917-18 it never went higher than $12 or $13.

"The present critical situation," Mr. Storow explained, "does not necessarily mean that the 'thread-bare patches' will show themselves this month or next, but that they will surely show themselves during the coming winter."

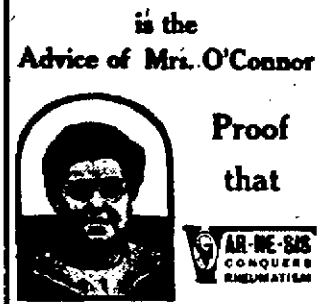

The Boston & Maine railroad, Mr. Storow explained, has only a 10 days' supply of coal now on hand, but in winter it should never be without a 90 or 100-day supply in reserve. In order to be sure of carrying it through the blizzards and trying periods to which all northern railroads are subjected.

Mrs. David O'Connor, 323 Maple St., Rochester, N. Y., had rheumatism for twelve years, for seven of which she was absolutely helpless. Mrs. O'Connor regained perfect health through Var-ne-sis.

A copy of her letters giving her experience and remarkable recovery will be sent to all who wish. Just send a card to W. A. Varney, Lynn, Mass., and you will receive it by return mail.

REFUSES TO CARRY SOLDIERS IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, June 30.—Newbridge, County Kildare, is the greatest military center serving Curragh, the Aldershot of Ireland. Yesterday for the first time it was sought to dispatch soldiers thence by a train passing from Kilkenny to Dublin. The drivers refused to carry them and the soldiers remained on the train, blocking up the line.

Subsequently trains from Athlone and Thurles for Dublin were similarly blocked. The stranded passengers drove to Kildare to catch through trains, not stopping at Newbridge. The soldiers have orders to board any train available, so the situation cannot be relieved by the despatch of trains from Dublin.

The government has had offers of assistance of men from Belfast to operate the trains, but has not accepted them. The situation is declared to be not bad enough as yet to justify the government taking over the trains and entering upon a general conflict.

CANNED SPEECHES BY REPUBLICAN NOMINEES

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Declaring the nation "requires no council of foreign powers to point the way to American duty," Senator Harding, republican nominee for president, in his first campaign speech yesterday urged the preservation of Americanism as the first and highest endeavor of all citizens of the republic.

The candidate's first utterance of the campaign was heard by no audience yesterday, being made for a phonographic record to be released on the Fourth of July and to be used throughout the campaign. A copy of the senator's address was made public at his office and with it a speech made last week by Gov. Coolidge of Massachusetts, the party's vice presidential nominee for a similar purpose.

Senator Harding chose "Americanism" as his subject, while Gov. Coolidge spoke on "Law and Order."

America, Mr. Harding said, does not mean to hold aloof, chooses no isolation and shuns no duty, but, he continued, "we arrogate to ourselves the keeping of the American continent and every concept of our moral obligation."

The presidential candidate added that "it is very practical to make sure our own house is in perfect order before we attempt the miracle of old world stabilization."

In urging maintenance of law and order, Gov. Coolidge defined the need of America as "a broader, firmer, deeper faith in the people, a faith that men desire to do right, that the government is founded upon a righteousness which will endure."

Americanism Began in 1787

"The first flaming torch of Americanism," said Senator Harding in part, "was lighted in framing the federal constitution in 1787. There was no thought of nationality in the revolution for American independence. The colonists were resisting a wrong, and freedom was their goal. Once it was achieved, nationality was the only agency suited to its preservation."

"Americanism really began when robed in nationality. America headed the forward procession of civil, human and religious liberty, which ultimately will effect the liberation of all mankind."

"Let us hesitate before we surrender the nationality which is the very soul of highest Americanism. This republicanism is the very soul of highest Americanism. This republicanism is the very soul of highest Americanism."

Mexico Releases American Aviator

MEXICO CITY, June 30.—General Culler, the war minister, last night ordered the release of Lieutenant Stanley M. Ames, the American aviator who was forced to make a landing in Mexico, 357 miles south of the border, on Sunday last while lost in a rain storm.

He has never failed humanity nor endangered civilization.

"We have been tardy sometimes, like when we were proclaiming democracy and neutrality, while we ignored our national rights, but the ultimate and helpful part we played in the great war will be the pride of America so long as the world recites the story."

"We do not mean to hold aloof, we choose no isolation, we shun no duty. I like to rejoice in an American conscience, and in a big conception of our obligations to liberty, justice and civilization. Aye, and more. I like to think of Columbia's helping hand to new republics which are seeking the blessings portrayed in our example. But I have a confidence in our American that requires no council of foreign powers to point the way of American duty. We wish to counsel, co-operate and contribute, but we arrogate to ourselves the keeping of the American continent and every concept of our moral obligation."

Gov. Coolidge's Address

"The first duty of a government is to be true to itself," said Gov. Coolidge in part. "This does not mean perfection. It means a plan to strive for perfection. It means loyalty to ideals. The ideals of America were set out in the Declaration of Independence and adopted in the Constitution. They did not represent perfection attained but perfection planned. The fundamental principle was freedom. The fathers knew this was not yet apprehended. They formed a government first in the faith that it was ever to press forward to this high mark."

"Men show by what they worship, what they are. It is no accident that

DRYS AND WETS CLASH

Bryan Asked Who Paid Him for Speeches — Gompers Asks Labor Plank

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Open warfare over prohibition, the Irish question and other troublesome issues of the democratic platform began yesterday in a stormy session of the convention while in private the leaders continued their negotiations for a settlement to keep the hostilities from spreading later to the floor of the convention itself.

A momentary defeat was administered to the Bryan dry legions in full platform committee, when a parliamentary battle for position on the speakers' list was decided in favor of the wets by a vote of 27 to 25. The general inclination, however, was to discount the significance of the vote, which was taken to decide which side should speak first.

Bryan Paid for Speeches

In the skirmish both wets and dries argued that their opponents were trying to reopen the prohibition issue and therefore should present their case first. When the dries were forced to go ahead, Mr. Bryan took charge of time allotted to that side, but divided all of it among other speakers representing the Anti-Saloon league, church associations, and other prohibition organizations.

For the wets, W. Bourke Cockran of New York was the chief spokesman during a debate in which Mr. Bryan was called upon to explain his connections with the Anti-Saloon league. He denied that he ever had received compensation from the league, except for "four months of last year, for certain public speeches."

The Irish question was argued in such militant fashion that the crowded committee room was in almost constant uproar. Opponents of the proposal for recognition of the Irish republic were kept under a hail of heckling and derision from Irish sympathizers and once or twice were called short and ugly words while the committee chairman pounded unheeded with his gavel and sergeants-at-arms tussled with the crowd in an ineffectual effort to keep order.

The argument for the Irish recognition plank was led by Frank P. Walsh, and the opposition was handled by Democrat Lloyd of Boston, president of the loyal coalition.

Glass Resents Bryan's Charge

Labor's platform was presented to the committee by Samuel Gompers, who declared the republican party had written reaction on its banners and that the labor vote must find some avenue elsewhere for expression of its decision.

The League of Nations, another subject threatening a convention floor fight, was not mentioned during the day's hearings, but there were many suggestions on almost every other political subject, prolonging the committee's deliberations into the evening.

The clash over which side should speak first came as soon as the committee took up the prohibition issue. Mr. Bryan and Mr. Cockran wrangled for half an hour on the point. Chairman Glass finally interrupted to say that it appeared that no one "wanted to talk," so the question would be passed over.

"This is not a time for joking," shouted Mr. Bryan.

"The chair is not joking," retorted Senator Glass, pounding the table, "and resents the suggestion."

On the motion by Borden Burr of Alabama, that the dries speak first, Mr. Bryan demanded a roll call and the motion was adopted, 27 to 25.

Both sides then presented their cases.

Presenting the petitions of the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Gompers said his program was designed to aid all wage-earners, organized or unorganized. He told the committee that unless the democrats took a progressive attitude they could not hope to compete with a party that has written "Reaction" across its banners.

"The republican party," said Mr. Gompers, "formulated a declaration of lacking in principles of progress and safety that there must be some avenue in which the intelligent unrest among our people can find its expression and enforcement."

Pays Tribute to Wilson

In the main, Mr. Gompers said, the proposals submitted by labor were the same as those written into the democratic platforms of 1905, 1912 and 1916. He paid tribute to President Wilson and declared the keynote address of Chairman Cummings at the opening of the convention yesterday was one of the most masterful in recent American politics.

"There was not a sentence in that keynote," the labor leader said, "which could be objected to by any reasonable American."

The Irish Question

Frank P. Walsh, who was chairman of the Irish American committee to the peace conference, opened for the Friends of Irish Freedom, and delivered an address remarkable for its temperate character. Walsh's radicalism on the subject in the past has previously offended the officers of the Friends of Irish Freedom.

"At the outset Walsh read the plank which he asked the committee to insert into the platform. It follows: 'Mindful of the circumstances of the birth of our own nation, we assert the principle that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. We will support the continuance of our long-established and lawful practice of according recognition without intervention in all cases where the people of a nation, as in Ireland, have by free vote of the people set up a republic and chosen a government to which they would willingly obedience. Therefore we pledge our party to the policy of according the republic of Ireland full, formal and official recognition by the government of the United States, thus vindicating the principle for which our soldiers offered up their lives.'"

Walsh Cites Precedents

Walsh declared that the democratic party has plenty of precedent for such action. He said that Thomas Jefferson laid down such a principle for the party when he advocated recognition of the French republic, in which he was opposed bitterly by Alexander Hamilton. He cited the recognition of Greece in 1824, although this country was at peace with Turkey, from which Greece had won independence, and the various recognitions accorded South American republics who won their independence from Spain in the last century.

"The Irish republic," he said, "was founded upon the utterances of two great democrats—Thomas Jefferson and Woodrow Wilson."

"One stated and the other reiterated in his fourteen points that just government could only rest upon the consent of the governed. The present Irish government was elected by a three-fourths majority, a greater majority than any president of the United States ever received."

Chairman Glass rapped his gavel sharply and turning to Lloyd said: "Any member of this committee has a right to question a speaker and is entitled to a courteous reply."

Lloyd began by saying that his side of the case had never been adequately presented by the "newspapers and newspapersmen had been intimidated by the Sinn Fein propaganda."

He gave four reasons for opposing the incorporation of this plank in the platform, as follows:

"1.—That the Sinn Fein movement is not deserving of support in America.

"2.—The Irish question is a domestic one within the British empire.

"3.—That it is inconsistent with America's interest to allow this propaganda to continue.

"4.—That it would be unpatriotic and impolitic for the democratic party to adopt such a resolution."

During his remarks he was continually heckled by men and women in the back of the hall. One of his statements that it is costing the British governments millions to keep Ireland in a state of order, drew forth a wild cheer from his opponents.

Handolph Wellford Smith, realizing that he had a democratic audience, instantly began to attack the republican party.

"The only wise thing that that collection of clowns, mountebanks and mincepools at Chicago did," he said, "was to keep this question out of their platform," he declared. "The Sinn Feiners are more poisonous and dangerous to America than all the Bolsheviks and Soviets in the world."

"It is not difficult to realize how they are carrying on their propaganda," he said, "when we understand that they have taken $10,000,000 out of the pockets of the servant girls of America."

This remark brought forth a protest. A red-haired woman in the back of the hall, who had been holding aloof and waving the American and Irish flags, left her seat and rushed down the aisle toward Smith.

"I'll make him take back that dirty insult," she cried.

She was stopped by the sergeant-at-arms, but continued to struggle until two policemen escorted her from the hall. A man in the rear of the hall arose and, addressing the chair, said:

"I think it would be fitting for the chair to rebuke such an unwarranted insult to American womanhood."

Smith rapidly ended the presentation of his case and the committee adjourned.

PRES. WILSON IS HIGHLY PLEASED

WASHINGTON, June 30.—President Wilson is elated with the proceedings so far of the democratic national convention at San Francisco. He is especially pleased with the tributes paid him in the form of the demonstration on the floor Monday and in the telegram of felicitation from the delegates.

The president cannot be quoted, nor has he made any official statement regarding the convention other than carried to San Francisco by his advisors, but it is possible to say authoritatively that Mr. Wilson is highly pleased.

As in the proceedings at the republican convention in Chicago, every move that is made at San Francisco is almost instantly transmitted by a special telegraph wire run into the White House by one of the press associations, and as the bulletins are received they are sent to the president in his study.

According to attaches at the White House, the chief executive so far has made no comment on any of the bulletins, but Mr. Tammy said last night that the president was very much pleased with the demonstration in his honor Monday.

Congressman Helms of Alabama was a caller at the White House yesterday afternoon to discuss the political situation with Secretary Tamm. Mr. Helms predicted the nomination of William G. McAdoo for the presidency and Gov. Cox of Ohio for the vice presidency. His second choice or guess is Gov. Cox for the presidency and Sec. of Agriculture Meredith for the vice presidency.

TO NAME McADOO AT FIRST OPPORTUNITY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—The name of William Gibbs McAdoo, ex-secretary of the treasury, will be placed formally in nomination at the convention "at the earliest opportunity," his supporters decided at a conference yesterday. Presentation of McAdoo's name will be by Burris A. Jenkins, a Kansas City minister.

Tentative arrangements for the McAdoo committee that is to work in the convention have been practically completed. Under the leadership of Samuel B. Amidon of Wichita, Kan., a steering committee, consisting of half a dozen first lieutenants and one man or woman from each state has been perfected.

LOOK OUT FOR REPUBLICANS!

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—At yesterday's session of the democratic national convention Secretary Hoffman announced that the convention had a special hospital in the building with physicians and nurses for any emergency.

"Do they write prescriptions?" inquired a delegate from the floor, amid a gale of laughter.

"It is a regular hospital," responded Secretary Hoffman to scattering applause.

Then one of the secretaries announced that $1,000,000 of California gold was on exhibition near the hall for the delegates to go and look at.

"Look out the republicans don't get it," shouted a delegate, and the convention had another laugh.

Speeches to five and limited to not more than three to a candidate each of possibilities had not more than 35 minutes for full description of his merits and capacity for the nation's highest gift. Working under that high-gear program, it was within the range of possibilities that the nominating speeches would all be delivered today, thus clearing the way for the presentation of the platform the first thing Thursday morning if the resolutions committee can complete it by that time. Speeches were on the program nominating William G. McAdoo, Atty. Gen. Palmer, Governor Cox, national convention, Governor Edwards, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, Sen. Owen, and John W. Davis, ambassador to Great Britain.

At the eleventh hour friends of William G. McAdoo abandoned efforts to prevent his being placed in formal nomination.

Jenkins to Name McAdoo

Dr. Burris Jenkins of Kansas City will deliver the nominating speech for Mrs. Antoinette Funk of Chicago and Mrs. Peter Oleson of Clouet, Minn., will make seconding speeches.

Decision to have Dr. Jenkins speak was not reached definitely until today because certain of McAdoo's friends thought his last telegram urging that a speech should not be made should be adhered to. It was thought by some, however, that a nominating speech should be delivered in fairness to the delegates, who, if no mention were made of Mr. McAdoo during the nominating speeches might be in the dark as to his position in the convention. No effort was made to get in touch with Mr. McAdoo but it was not thought he would make further protest against the plans of his friends. They were generally agreed that no further statement of any kind would be forthcoming until after the convention nominates a candidate. The total McAdoo strength on the first ballot, according to the latest estimates of McAdoo supporters will approximate 300 votes. Some say it will not be more than 250 while others insist it will run over 300.

Thus far the McAdoo men said they have suffered only one defeat. The Maryland delegation which had been counted in their column will cast its first vote for John W. Davis, according to information given out early today. The McAdoo supporters said they expect Maryland's vote to return to them after a few ballots.

Cox and Palmer Confident

Both the Cox and Palmer forces viewed with evident satisfaction the scrimmage within the McAdoo forces which was threatening to bring McAdoo to the front once and make the nomination a three-cornered contest from the beginning. They have insisted all along that they would not permit the McAdoo movement to enjoy the advantage of a reserved seat in the rear to wait for a psychological moment when the convention, unable to throw a two-thirds vote to either of them, would turn to someone else.

Palmer headquarters, in a formal statement, that the attorney general's position was "stronger than it ever has been before," announced that his forces were intact and claimed votes in the convention which would not be shown on the first ballot because they would be cast for favorite sons and come to the Palmer column later. Cox forces, profoundly undisturbed by the wet and dry argument which has ranged around their candidate, and the outside issues which have been injected into his campaign were lightning fast on their lines and were ready to start the balloting.

Dark Horse Talk

Despite the promise that the convention would have a big three at the outset dark horse talk was never more persistent than it is at the moment. The candidates are about to be placed in nomination. The names of Vice-

Pres. Wilson Receives Resolution

WASHINGTON, June 30.—A telegraphic copy of the resolution adopted by the democratic national convention praising the achievements of President Wilson in the conduct of the war and congratulating him on his recovery was delivered today to the president. It had been delayed in transit. There was no intimation as to whether the president would send a reply.

President Marshall, John W. Davis, and Homer C. Cummings, were always heard when dark horses were being discussed, and delegates were taking into consideration that each of the big three could prevent the others from getting two-thirds vote.

The Cummings boom grew from a mere demonstration of enthusiasm to formidable proportions in the 24 hours which followed the chairman's opening address and today it had taken full form with hand bills being circulated, the delegates declaring "A great moment has produced a great man." Democrats throughout the country, too, were responding to that sentiment apparently, for the national chairman's desk was piled high with congratulatory telegrams.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN POLICE COURT

Gustaf Neylan of Concord, N. H., was fined $25 in police court this morning, for causing injury to the property of one Mr. Bowers of this city, while driving an automobile at the intersection of Baldwin street and the Princeton boulevard, on the afternoon of June 20, and going away without making himself known at the time.

Mr. Bowers was not present in the court room, but James Duffy, who figured in the accident, testified that he and Mr. Bowers and a small boy were driving a horse and wagon out of Baldwin street on to the boulevard when the horse was knocked down and the shafts of the wagon damaged by the Neylan machine. Although Duffy claimed that they tried to check the horse as soon as the machine was sighted, the auto struck the shoulders of the horse and disabled it for some moments. The rear mud guard of the automobile was damaged.

Neylan stopped his machine a short distance ahead, came back, and in an argument with Duffy refused to give his name because the occupants of the wagon refused to give any information about themselves. Because both sides claimed each other to blame, neither was willing to advance their respective names. Mr. Bowers, the owner of the horse valued at $500, took the license number of the machine. Charles B. Smith who saw the accident from his piazza nearby and heard the conversation, said that Neylan refused to give his name because Duffy refused to do likewise and that he himself suggested that the license number of the machine be taken. The law requires that the parties figuring in an accident give, of their own accord, their names, residences, and plate numbers or other information, immediately after the accident. Failure to do so is punishable by a fine from $20 to $2000, imprisonment, or both.

Apprentice Entered

Because Leo Roy played ball on Sixth avenue on the evening of June 4th with a number of other boys, he was charged with interfering with the convenient use of said street, in police court this morning and fined $20. Through counsel Roy appealed the case. His plea was not guilty.

Officer Cassins signed the complaint and testified that he had spoken to Roy several times about playing ball in the street, but the warning had been unheeded.

Thomas L. Soraags was charged with operating an automobile which was not registered. Officer Liston made the arrest on June 23. Soraags claimed that he just bought the auto and was trying it out. He was fined $5.

Case Dismissed

The charge of larceny made by Leo J. Thellen against Adolard St. Jean for the alleged theft of a cake valued at $3 was dismissed in police court this morning. At a recent church fair Thellen was the lucky man in winning a huge cake, but was later disappointed in finding that somebody had stolen it. Suspicious of St. Jean, he issued a complaint against him and a few days ago when the case was first called in police court, stated that he would be satisfied only with the cake which had been stolen. St. Jean claimed no knowledge of the disappearance of the cake and that he did not eat any of it, but agreed with the final decision that he would have the same people make another one for Thellen. The case was again called today when the complainant stated that he had received an exact replica.

WAS WOMAN CHARMER

Model Tells How Slain

"Card King" Charmed Fifty Girls

BY H. P. BURTON, N.E.A. Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 30.—Why did all women "fall for" middle-aged Joseph Bowne Elwell, the "card king of America," whose mysterious murder in his New York home has disclosed the fact that his feminine intimates numbered more than 50 young girls of extraordinary beauty?

I asked this question today of Beatrice Tremaine, the New York artist's model, one of whose letters was found in the home of Elwell, and whose name, therefore, has been linked with the case. I found Miss Tremaine with her mother in their elegantly appointed apartment overlooking Washington square at Fifth avenue, and in culture and looks she transcended even her reputation.

"Women liked Mr. Elwell," she said, pensively, "because he was always a gentleman in their presence. He treated them as a courtier might treat a queen—not, of course, acting as though he were an inferior in any way, but rather as though he could not do other than maintain the perfect, impersonal attitude of one without presumptuousness."

SCHOOLS FOR BABY CLINIC STATIONS

Mrs. Kate Kohlhaas of the Lowell Guild has secured permission to use the Eliot and Greenhalge schools as baby clinic stations during the coming summer months. The work at these stations will be carried on in the same manner as at the guild headquarters in Dutton street, a doctor and nurse being present at both places at a designated time once each week to render aid to mothers who apply.

This step was thought advisable through the warm weather to bring the assistance of the guild nearer to the people and to encourage mothers of these districts to visit the stations each week.

The International Institute plans to co-operate with the Lowell Guild in obtaining a nurse for mothercraft in the Portuguese district and in keeping one at the institute headquarters in Palmer street during the summer.

CHILDREN'S PICNIC AT NABNASSETT

About 50 French children between the ages of 5 and 12 enjoyed a picnic at Nabnasset this afternoon under the direction of Miss Edna Merrill of the International Institute. The Lowell Gas Light company gave the use of one of their huge trucks to convey the children to and from the picnic grounds and the Page company kindly furnished ice cream to the little ones. Miss Merrill in choosing the children for the picnic took them from the congested districts. It was the first of a series of outings which Miss Merrill is planning for the children of various neighborhoods with the assistance of the different firms and corporations in the city.

In re-establishing co-ordination between the executive office the vice-president can and ought to play a big part, and I have been telling Governor Coolidge how much I wish him to not only be a participant in the campaign, but also as a helpful part of a republican administration."

"The country needs the counsel and the becoming participation in the government of such men as Governor Coolidge."

"Governor Coolidge's statement follows: 'I am here to co-operate with my associate. We have many problems ahead. Many men have many remedies. The best remedy is the observance of the constitution and the laws, not their enforcement, mind you. I am not now speaking of that. Of course, the government will enforce the laws. That is far from enough. There must be a return of public opinion toward self-control by the people, toward a great and overmastering desire to observe the law. When that is done the other problems will fall away and there will be peace, prosperity and progress.'"

EXPERT SUPERVISES DYNAMITE "BONFIRE"

State Chemist Walter Wedger of Boston, an expert on explosives, directed the burning of 200 defective sticks of dynamite in the city sand bank at the rear of the Chelmsford street hospital late yesterday afternoon. The dynamite had been moved to the sand bank, the city's storage place for explosives, some time ago, and recently it was noted that the nitroglycerine was dripping out of the boxes containing the dynamite. An explosion might have resulted eventually and it was decided to adopt safety first methods by burning the dynamite. Mr. Wedger spread the 200 sticks over the sand bar and set fire to them. The dynamite was burned without accident to anybody. Chief Edward F. Saunders of the local fire department accompanied Mr. Wedger on his mission of destruction.

Their rich and harmonious color combinations add greatly to the appearance of even the finest homes.

It doesn't cost very much to turn an ordinary day porch—even one exposed and close to the street—into a sleeping porch at night, that will permit you to enjoy sound sleep which would be impossible indoors. When morning comes, your night porch is a day porch again in two minutes without any work at all.

Let us show you the COOLMOR Self-Hanging features with paper pattern, which enable you unaided to hang a shade in five minutes.

THE O. M. L. CADETS PREPARE FOR CAMP

About 200 members of the O.M.L. Cadets attended a very enthusiastic meeting last night in the cadet armory in East Merrimack street when plans for the annual encampment at Millington's grove, Wilmington, August 2 to 7, were discussed.

Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O.M.L. spiritual director for the cadets, addressed the gathering and promised several new features in connection with this year's camp. As is the annual custom the inspection will be made by regular army officers on the camp grounds and the entire equipment will be kept in first class trim.

The tour of duty will also include sports and plenty of time for social hours. Visitors will be allowed in the camp after the first day. Differences from other years, about 50 former service men will be present during the encampment.
